

Missouri Facts

Here are some "Missouri Facts" from Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown's Blue book:

Missouri is one of the world centers in production of chemicals.

St. Louis has the best public school buildings in the United States.

Kansas City surpasses all eastern cities in the extent of its connected park and boulevard system, announced as unequalled in America.

Missouri is the birthplace of osteopathy, and Kirksville in Adair county is the home of the greatest osteopathic school in the world.

Mexico in Audrian County, Missouri, has long held high honors as the national saddle horse center, oftentimes being called the "Saddle Horse Capital of the World".

Missouri has 560 miles of water front along the Mississippi River, and water front along both sides of the Missouri River for 208 miles through the center of the State.

Missouri was the home of Captain James B. Eads, the world-famous engineer and designer of the St. Louis bridge bearing his name and the Mississippi River jetties at the Gulf.

Iron county, Missouri, was the headquarters of General Ulysses S. Grant on the day he received his commission as General of the Army of the United States. Iron county is so named because it is the home of the mountain of iron ore.

The area of Missouri is greater than any state bordering on the Mississippi River except Minnesota, and larger than the combined areas of Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Delaware, leaving ample space remaining for another state equally as large as Rhode Island.

Here are some "Missouri Facts" from Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown's Blue Book:

The first permanent settlement in Missouri was established at Ste. Genevieve in 1735.

One of America's greatest humorists and most beloved authors was a Missourian—Mark Twain.

The first civil marriage record in Missouri was on April 20, 1775 at St. Louis; the first postoffice in 1804; the first ferry in about 1805.

Missouri is situated between the 36th and 41st degrees north latitude, and between the 89th and 96th degree of west longitude.

A Missourian was the discoverer of the poison gas cure adopted by the French Army during the World War—Lieutenant Julien A. Gehring, a native of St. Louis.

A Missourian was the first American to carry the stars and stripes at the head of American troops on the streets of London during the World War. He was General John J. Pershing.

Citizens of Benton, Ill., blinked their eyes when they saw an old-fashioned ball and chain gang at work on the city streets. Police Chief Newman resorted to an old ordinance which made ball and chain gangs possible, when the county's quota at the state penitentiary at Joliet was exhausted.

Large deposits of high-grade alumina materials, sometimes analyzing as high as 75 per cent aluminum, may be found in Missouri.

Missouri stands high in tripoli, is a big producer of commercial sands, and is celebrated for its non-plastic fire clays.

The first Missouri industry was lead mining, which was started by the French in about 1719 near Fredericktown in Madison county.

Coal measures underlie 25,000 square miles of Missouri land, scattered over many counties and varying thickness from eighteen inches to five feet.

Missouri is an important clay-working state. It ranks among the first five states of the Union in the manufacture of fire, fancy and enameled brick and sewer pipe and drain tile.

Glass sand of the finest commercial quality is found in large quantities in a narrow belt extending from Callaway County to Cape Girardeau County. It is used by the manufacturer of the finest plate glass.

Missouri is the home of "Carthage Marble" or "Carthage Stone", which is found in different formations in several southern counties—sometimes called "Miracle Stone"—and is recognized as one of the finest building materials.

Harvey Johnson and Arden Elise went to Oran on business Sunday.

3.2 Beer Act Provides Fees and Regulations

An ordinance regarding the manufacture and sale of 3.2 percent beer, setting down license fees, and providing penalties for violations of regulations was passed Monday night at a regular monthly council meeting.

The ordinance was written by Robert Dempster, city attorney, in accordance with state laws governing 3.2 beer.

Under the act, these fees will be charged for licenses to be issued by Elmos Taylor, city collector: for manufacture and sale by manufacturer, $300 a year; for sale by distributor or wholesaler, $50 a year; for sale for consumption on the premises, $20 a year; for sale by grocers, other merchants, and dealers in the original package direct to the consumer and not for resale or consumption in the place of sale, $15 a year. Licenses will be pro-rated for 1935 but during no subsequent year. They will not be transferrable and will be due as of January 1 each year.

Included in regulations governing the sale of 3.2 beer are sections stating that no person holding a license may sell the beer between 1:30 and 6 in the morning. Further, no person having a 3.2 license may secure one for sale of intoxicating liquor.

Persons selling liquor with only a 3.2 license; those mixing alcohol with 3.2 at their business establishments; those selling without permits; those opening original packages in places where licenses do not allow such action; those drinking from the package at the place of sale will be considered guilty of misdemeanors and may be fined $500 and placed in jail for 90 days or may be given both punishments. Licenses may be revoked.

Until this year, municipalities were not allowed to regulate or license the sale of 3.2 beer. The full text of the ordinance will be published in the Tuesday issue of The Standard.

J. Otto Hahs Mechanical
Horses Win Blue Ribbon

Mechanical horses invented by J. Otto Hahs were awarded a blue ribbon in the development and exercise class at a national inventors' congress held last week at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago.

Mr. Hahs exhibited eight horses at the convention, as well as an electrically operated cradle. He returned home Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buchanan, who accompanied him to the congress.

Mr. Hahs left one horse in Chicago, where it will be tried out at one of three health clubs operated there by Charles M. Postl, who has spent many years in "re-vitalizing" men and women. Mr. Postl will soon install other horses in his clubs.

Mr. Postl, who also has a club at Valparaiso, Fla., is president of the Associated Health Clubs, an organization whose members have establishments in all the principal cities in the United States.

It is possible that Buddy Rogers, the famous orchestra leader and movie star, will also become a devotee of Mr. Hahs' mechanical horses. Seeing them at the convention, Mr. Rogers said he would like very much to buy one for installation in his home.

While he was in Chicago, Mr. Hahs spent all one morning and part of an afternoon with Fox, Universal, and Hearst Metroton newsreel cameramen, who shot about 4000 feet of film showing his eight horses and his electric cradle. The film was taken on the roof of the Hotel Sherman. Two children and members of the Beef Trust club, composed of overly plump women, sat on the horses during the filming. At least one of the reels will be shown here, it is thought.

City Hall To Be Used
For Semo WPA Office

Permission for the use of part of the city hall's second floor for a district works progress administration office was granted by councilmen Monday evening.

C. L. Blanton, Jr., district administrator, asked the board for office space for himself and his assistants. Alteration work will begin soon.

Judge Joseph W. Myers, justice of the peace, whose office is now on the second floor will probably move to the McCoy-Tanner building. In the corner he has occupied Harvey Harrison, district relief administrator, will place his office. Mr. Blanton will occupy the former board of public works storage room on the west side of the floor. His assistants will be housed in other offices now used by district relief workers.

The city will purchase materials necessary for construction of a women's restroom on the second floor and for repairing the city hall roof, which now leaks badly. Relief labor will be used for the work.

At the council meeting, a half-burned building on Prosperity, owned by Roscoe H. Weltecke, was declared a nuisance and ordered torn down by the city marshal within fifteen days. Councilmen also decided to serve notice to T. A. Slack, preparatory to declaring his property on Prosperity a nuisance.

At the request of Ben Welter, the city bakers' license was increased to $50 and a license of the same amount was set for trucks which come here to sell bakery products to merchants. The bakers' license was formerly $15. Mr. Welter objected to the presence of outside peddlers, who he said sometimes sell to merchants at discounts. The high license will discourage their trade here, it is thought.

Before they adjourned, councilmen objected to the cost of operating the police department and voted Robert Dempster a $100 bonus, to be paid from the water works fund, for his work in preparing the $15,000 bond issue ordinance. They also allotted $50 for direct relief here during July. Last month's allotment was $200.

The council may meet again next week.

Three Unhurt in Truck
Auto Wreck Near Cape

Three Sikestonians escaped injury early Tuesday morning when the Ford V-8 sedan in which they were riding collided with a truck on Highway 61 a few yards north of the Broadway intersection west of Cape Girardeau. Both machines were badly damaged.

The three are Kenneth Hocker, Merlyn Taylor, and Miss Betty Fisher. With them was Miss Jane McIntyre of Logansport, Ind. Hocker was driving the car, which is owned by his father, F. H. Hocker.

When the two vehicles met the 7000 pounds of cabbage being hauled to St. Louis in the truck were scattered over the highway in front of the Alvarado service station. Because a large crowd, chiefly persons who had attended a boat excursion, arrived soon, nearly all the cabbage disappeared within an hour.

The truck driver, C. W. Gunn, of Elbridge, Tenn., was accompanied by Clayburn Morgan, a relief driver. The machine, a Chev-

BEN RITTER BUILDING
NEW HOME ON MOORE

Work started Monday morning on a six-room, two-story house for Ben Ritter. The home will be located on Moore avenue opposite the high school. The Ritters will occupy it when it is finished in about six weeks.

Files Reckless Driving Charge

A complaint charging Morris Armstrong with reckless driving here May 20 was filed Tuesday in Judge Joseph W. Myers' court by Tot Chaney. In the petition, Chaney charges that Armstrong collided with his car, effecting $10 damage to it. Witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Howland and Russell Chaney.

Contentment Is Silent

that he is 3, his father has removed the basket and in its place he has put a small mechanical horse for Thomas' pleasure. The same mechanism which made the cradle rock slowly or fast now forces the animal to trot or gallop.

Entertainment Features
Home Service School

A new innovation in group demonstrations will be provided local women by Lee O'Reilly, Norge dealer here, who will conduct a one day Home Service School at the Rex Theatre on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

"We are offering unusual entertainment and instruction in this school which we believe housewives will enjoy," said Mrs. O'Reilly. "Women like sessions such as these where they can get together and exchange ideas and at the same time it gives us an opportunity to show our appreciation for their patronage, and for the outstanding preference given our products during the last year."

"Modern equipment has taken the drudgery out of house work. And new products are designed to meet the exacting requirements of actual use. Norge Corporation is noted for building its home conveniences to fit these needs, and we are pleased to exhibit them to our customers and friends."

We are bringing Elsa Bradley, noted Home Economist here to conduct actual demonstrations of refrigerator use values and preparation of delicious cold cookery recipes. She will also demonstrate the features of the new Norge kitchen range and has a wealth of authentic and up-to-date information on food preparation and modern range cooking.

"High-lighting this afternoon's session will be the showing of the sound film, 'Norging Ahead Together' starring the famous Beverly Bayne. This delightful and humorous film is built around a home-making theme and is an entertainment in itself. Miss Bayne has never appeared more charming, and we are sure our audience will welcome the opportunity to see her again."

"In addition to this entertainment, we have a number of delightful surprises that will round out this program of educational instruction," concluded Mrs. O'Reilly.

To Grant Easement for Widening of Malone If Conditions Are Accepted$1650 CONTRIBUTED TO NAZARENE BUILDING FUND

With an additional $100 raised Sunday for the building fund, members of the Church of the Nazarene now have $1650 cash to pay for extensions and repairs on their church.

At first needing only $1800, members will now require about $2500 to complete all necessary work. They intend to have remodeling and redecorating done as they are able to pay for labor and materials.

By Wednesday walls of the new church tower and new steps had been finished. Next week, beginning Monday, the roof will be torn off so that it may be replaced with a new one which will cover the old structure and the addition on the east side.

BLEACHERS TO BE BUILT FOR SOFTBALL GAMES

A new section of bleachers will be built soon at the high school athletic field for spectators at the softball games, William E. Mahew said Wednesday. The bleachers will be sixteen feet long and as high as the present ones. During the summer the section will be kept on the west edge of the field. In the fall it will be moved either to the north or to the south side next to ones already built.

EIGHTY-FIVE ATTEND LAIR'S
COOKING DEMONSTRATION

Eighty-five women gathered at the Lair Company store Friday for a cooking demonstration on Coleman's instant gas range. R. L. Barnes, representative of the company and an expert chef, was in charge of the activities, which proved very interesting.

Along with the necessary labor incidental to broiling big thick juicy steaks and "pigs in blankets," Mr. Barnes kept up a rapid fire of cooking information which was enjoyed by the ladies. At the conclusion of the two-hour entertainment the food was sliced and served to those present.

The main purpose of the show was, of course, to demonstrate the economy and efficiency of the new Coleman and from remarks by various ladies after the performance it was evident that Mr. Barnes convinced them of its excellence.

The Lair company has exclusive distribution of this product.

SCOUTS SUCCESSFUL IN DRIVE FOR FOOD, CLOTHES

Although the number of filled sacks collected was small compared with that distributed, Scouts of Troop 43 concluded a successful drive Tuesday for articles for the Children's Home Society of Missouri. Residents filled only 150 sacks of the 700 left at doorsteps Monday.

Among the articles collected were these: 65 cans of staple canned goods, chiefly vegetables; 4 half-gallon jars, 36 quarts and 35 pints of fruits and pickles; 25 glasses of jelly; 3 pecks of potatoes; several miscellaneous grocery commodities; and a large size box of clothing, with 10 pair of trousers, 20 pair of shoes, and several dresses and baby's clothes.

The articles will be kept here until they are sent to the children's home in St. Louis under the direction of Miss Frances Marie Harman, the society's representative in Southeast Missouri.

Troop 43 Scouts are very grateful to residents for their help, which made the drive successful.

TO GIVE FACIALS, SKIN
ANALYSES AT HEISSERER'S

Demonstrations of Jean Noel beauty creations will be given at Heisserer's drug store Friday and Saturday and all next week by Miss Mary Collier and Mrs. Flo Wilson.

The two women will give residents free facial and analyses of their skins. They will be happy to visit homes of residents who find it inconvenient to go to Heisserer's. They may be reached at the drug store.

"Our purpose is to give, without charge, instruction for youthful loveliness," Miss Collier said. "All women have beauty at their fingertips. We will give advice on treatment in the home care of the skin and want to show women how to use their cosmetics properly. We all know that if we give our faces ten minutes a day the mirror will prove the results."

A "Quitter," according to Reno Ruth is a woman who stops getting married after the first two bad breaks.

Ten feet of the Missouri Pacific right-of-way along Malone avenue will be given to the city by easement railroad officials told Robert Dempster and A. W. Swacker while they were here Monday.

The railroad grant will halt the city's planned condemnation suit for a strip of the right-of-way from Prairie avenue to the Frisco tracks.

In making the offer, officials set down five requests which the city council tentatively accepted at a meeting Monday night. Members of a committee appointed by Dr. G. W. Presnell agreed, however, to talk further with C. F. Dougherty, division superintendent, of Poplar Bluff, in an effort to have at least two requests removed.

These pertain to moving the Missouri Pacific watertower to the north side of the track and moving Western Union Poles. Since the watertower is twelve feet north of Malone avenue and so would be two feet beyond the widened street, committee members think moving it is unnecessary. The Western Union Poles are near the track and would not be near Malone even after it was widened ten feet. It is possible, however, that they would interfere with telephone lines standing west of the railroad passenger station.

The committee members — J. L. Matthews, A. W. Swacker, and Murray Phillips, acting in the place of Barney Forrester, who could not serve because it was necessary for him to be out of town Tuesday—gained small encouragement when they interviewed division highway heads regarding paving of the ten-foot strip by the state highway department. It is likely that the department will this year have an appropriation for street improvements in municipalities similar to the one with which Tanner was concerned in the spring of 1934. Members of the committee intend to consult Scott Wilson, chairman of the state highway commission, and T. H. Cutler, chief engineer, about the work.

The city plans now to acquire the right-of-way strip by easement, so that if funds are available it may be paved without delay. It is possible, too, that the street will be widened and the strip filled with cinders to be used temporarily at least for parking space. WPA labor might be used in paving work.

Besides Mr. Dougherty, these Missouri Pacific officials came here Monday, staying to lunch

Charleston Savings and Loan Secretary
Found Short $18,600

CHARLESTON, MO., July 2—The Charleston Savings and Loan Association was placed in the hands of a temporary commission for liquidation today following conference between the directors and Ira McBride, supervisors of the Missouri Building and Loan Department, after a shortage of approximately $18,600 was discovered.

The Board of Directors accepted the resignation of C. L. Joslyn as director and secretary of the association and Dr. Charles W. Reed, president, said the state would immediately call on bondsmen for $5000, the amount of Joslyn's surety.

Dr. Reed said that when directors of the association realized the shortage, they immediately called McBride into conference. He said the shortage apparently occurred over a period of about five years.

Joslyn, who is a member of one of the oldest families in Charleston, has served as mayor of the city, and is at present City Treasurer.

"Mr. Joslyn," said Dr. Reed, "declares he did not realize anything personally out of the shortage. He said the banking situation during the past few years resulted in heavy withdrawals and that he had juggled the records and covered up, believing that in time the association would resume its earnings and be able to withstand the depression. He had been secretary for 18 years."

Suit For Payment of Old Warrants Filed

A suit which promises to be of widespread importance was filed in the Scott county circuit court Tuesday by Bailey & Bailey.

In the action, R. L. Bradley, as receiver for the First National Bank of Chaffee, is suing the county, seeking judgment on four county warrants issued in 1931. The warrants, which were issued to residents and later accepted by the bank, total $310.46. The plaintiff is attempting to recover that amount plus 6 per cent interest. The suit is scheduled to be heard in the August term of court.

This individual suit is small. It is thought, however, that as soon as other warrant holders learn of it, they will form a pool and file a suit of consequence for recovery of funds owed them.

There are numerous outstanding warrants in Scott county. A list of amounts was published in the June 18 issue of The Standard. The county court cannot now legally pay holders of old warrants unless they receive delinquent tax payments for the years in which warrants were issued, since 1935 funds can be used only for current expenses.

If a judgment were issued against the county, though, the court could fix a levy to pay them. For that reason the court, it is understood, is not opposed to filing of the suit. The levy would probably not be assessed until 1937, however, when road bonds expire. Because the ordinary levy will not be large that year, an additional one could be imposed to pay for the warrants without raising county taxes.

TWO LEAVE FOR SCOUT CAMP; OTHERS TO ENROLL JULY 14 FOR LAST WEEK

Bobby Dover and Ray Allen Moll enrolled Saturday afternoon at the area Boy Scout camp on the St. Francis river in Wayne county.

They were taken to camp by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kirk and Miss Gwendolyn Kirk. Charles Leonard Kirk, a Life Scout, who accompanied them to the camp, stayed until Wednesday to help C. G. Morrison, Scout executive and director of camp activities.

Since the camp will be filled next week, Sikeston Scouts who originally planned to enroll Sunday must wait until July 14. It is possible that ten or twelve will be taken to camp by Harry Dover.

Gordon Blanton, who will remain at the camp as a junior officer until it closes July 21, has invited all residents to visit the Scout camp, which is being operated in Wayne county for the first time this year. Visitors will be welcome, he said, and may stay an entire week-end or only during an afternoon.

ROOSEVELT SAVES FARM FOR WIDOW NEAR CARDWELL

We read in other newspapers where President Roosevelt has taken a personal interest in some individual, assisting them in recovering from effects of the recent depression, but right here in Dunklin County we have an example of a widow, about to lose her farm, who had appealed to every agency in an effort to save her homestead without success, and finally in desperation wrote a personal letter to the President, who not only requested that the sale of her land be postponed but arranged a loan, through the Federal Land Bank, which was just completed this month, and through which this woman, the mother of nine children, will be able to retain possession of her farm the remainder of her days.

Mrs. Verdie Vaughn, who lives about 5 miles south of Cardwell on Dunklin County Highway F, was about to lose her farm. As did other farmers she suffered during the depression, only more so it seems, and even before former Collector Andrew Davidson went out of office, her farm was subject to sale for taxes, but in the face of misfortune which Mrs. Vaughn had suffered, Mr. Davidson refrained from foreclosing the 120-acre farm.

In the fall of 1933 and early in 1934, Mrs. Vaughn attempted to get a loan through the Federal Land Bank to pay up her taxes and save the farm which was scheduled to be advertised for sale, but the Federal Land Bank restrained the local agent from even accepting an application for a loan, due to three principal reasons: there were minor heirs complicating the situation; the only indebtedness was for taxes and it was against the principle and policy to lend money solely for paying taxes; and third, the land was in a restricted district where drainage or levee bonds were in default. The bank in St. Louis had informed the local agent that it was useless for an application to be presented; that it was impossible for a loan to be made.

On January 19, 1934, as a last resort, Mrs. Vaughn wrote a personal letter to President Roosevelt relating the facts of the case, including the fact that the application had been turned down, and suit on taxes was threatening. Just seven days later, on January 26, she received a telegram from the President, in which the collector was requested to withhold any tax suit.

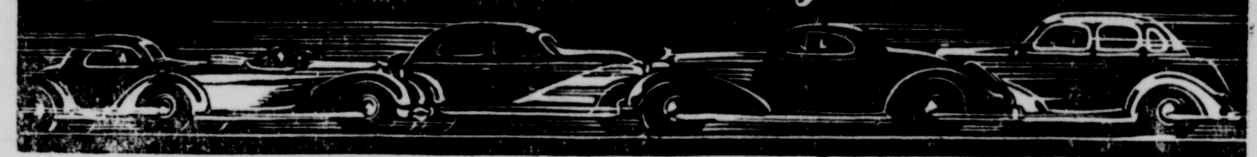

Within a few days Mrs. Vaughn received a letter from E. Anthony, Deputy Land Bank Commissioner of Washington, D. C., requesting full details, and he enclosed a copy of a letter he had addressed to the Federal Land Bank in St. Louis telling them that an application from Mrs. Vaughn would be sent through in due time, and for it to be placed on the emergency list for positive action.

While it has taken almost a year and a half for the loan to be finally completed, due not only to the voluminous amount of red tape involved in what was once termed by the Federal Land Bank an "impossible situation", but also to the fact that Mrs. Vaughn on two different occasions was out of this county on visits delaying the signing of papers essential to the closing of the loan, everything has now been completed, according to W. F. Pierce, who lives in the same

BULLETIN ON LAND TAX DELINQUENCY PUBLISHED

"Currently unpaid proper taxes for 105 of Missouri's 114 counties rose from $3,577,610 in 1928 to $5,827,044 in 1932, despite the fact that tax levies decreased during the same period from $28,443,640 to $22,762,193," according to Dr. Conrad H. Harram, assistant professor in agricultural economics at the University of Missouri who has just completed a survey of tax delinquency in the state. The results of this survey have been published in a College of Agriculture Bulletin entitled "Land Tax Delinquency in Missouri." Anyone in the state of Missouri desiring a copy of this bulletin may secure it free of charge by writing to the Agricultural Editor, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

"The percentage of current levies delinquent in these same counties increased from 12.58 per cent in 1928 to 25.60 per cent in 1932," Dr. Harram further states, "Both the volume and the percentage of current delinquency decreased in 1933 as compared to 1932."

"Average delinquency in 92 counties for which data were available increased from 4.514-

504 acres in 1928 to 10,163,319 acres in 1932. Average delinquencies were particularly heavy in the Central Ozark and Southeast lowland counties. Disregarding the Southeast lowlands, where the special conditions exist, delinquent and least fertile lands.

"The per centage of current delinquency was heaviest in the counties of the Southeast lowlands and of the Ozark center and was least in the Ozark border and the northern Agricultural counties.

WHY A THIRD PARTY?

Plans are going forward for the meeting in Chicago next month of various dissatisfied groups with the purpose in view of organizing a third party. They seem to disregard the political history of the country, which ought to discourage such a step. There have been a series of such movements over the decades, beginning with the Anti-Masonic party, the Know-Nothings, the Populists and the Bull Moosers. All of them have fluttered for an instant and died out.

If our Republican brethren will pardon a suggestion, it would seem that here is a real chance for them. If the cave of the Adulterers has been found, here is a retreat for the G. O. P. Satisfied with nothing, recommending nothing, they could easily move in, take over the third party movement, and at least have something besides criticism to offer.

It is true that they would have to swallow a lot of distasteful ideas, but the G. O. P. is no stranger to such. The Grassrooters broke the ice by lying low on

Building a Better State

By R. A. Cotner, St. Louis Children's Aid Society.

Word has reached us from Washington that the Social Security Bill may be expected to come before the Senate for consideration in the next few days. If passed, this Bill will face Missouri with the necessity of establishing her eligibility to receive the federal grants which the Bill proposes. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that our citizens begin giving serious thought and consideration to ways and means of complying with the demands laid down in this bill. In the field of Child Welfare, particularly, Missouri finds herself considerably out of line with federal requirements and therefore confronted with the necessity of making certain changes both in administration and law.

The Social Security Bill might almost be said to assume that each state is now dutifully caring for its "homeless, dependent and neglected children." This is not true of Missouri, as a state. True, she was the first state to pass a Mother's Pension Law back in 1911. But she left that Law inoperative by her failure to give it financial backing. Down through the years, she has been content to shift responsibility haphazardly to private benevolence and to city and county appropriations. As a result, while children in St. Louis and Kansas City have been fairly well cared for, the children throughout the rural areas have been shockingly unprotected. At present, less than 1500 children in the State are receiving Mother's Pensions. Most of these are in St. Louis and Kansas City where they are cared for by city appropriations which are the lowest per capita of their kind in the United States. According to recent reports, there are 5000 children throughout Missouri eligible for this form of aid who are not receiving it; and at least 4500 more who need other kinds of care and are not receiving it. Now the Social Security Bill if passed, will end this irresponsibility by offering federal grants to states which give direct financial aid to their dependent children. It has been estimated that Missouri will receive an initial sum of approximately $100,000 even upon the basis of her present inadequate appropriations for child welfare. Later, when she assumes full responsibility as a state for her dependent children, there is good reason for believing that she may receive from $800,000, to $1,000,000 annually from the Federal Government.

To receive this aid, a state must comply with certain minimum requirements outlined by the Social Security Bill and submit its plan of administration for approval to the Chief of the United States Children's Bureau. The important requirements with which Missouri must now take steps to comply are as follows:

First, the plan must be statewide in administration. It may be administered by the counties or by a single state agency created or chosen for that purpose. In Missouri, the county system of administration is favored, and a bill, proposing to create a system of County Welfare Boards, was drafted for the last session of the State Legislature. This bill died in committee with the result that Missouri today still faces the necessity of formulating a definite administration plan for state-wide child welfare services.

Second, there must be direct financial participation both by the State and by each of its counties, it being no less mandatory upon the one than upon the other.

Third, and last among the requirements demanding immediate action is the designation of a single state agency (whether already extant or to be created whether confined to aid for dependent children or having other functions) charged with final administrative responsibilities.

While the State Children's Bureau may possibly satisfy federal requirements, a better plan might be to create a department of Public Welfare which would be charged not only with child welfare services but with all public welfare services in the State. A bill to create such a department was drafted for the last session of the Legislature, but like its sister bill calling for the creation of County Welfare Boards, it was permitted to die in committee.

This, then, is the sum of the matter; that if Missouri wishes to receive federal grants for child welfare services under the terms of the Social Security Bill, it must take immediately the following steps to satisfy minimum federal requirements:

First, it must draft a state-wide plan to be administered either by a single state agency or by county welfare boards whose administration will be supervised by a single state agency. The formulation of such a plan calls for legislative enactment.

Third, there must be a single state agency, created or designated which will be charged with final administrative responsibilities. If a new agency is to be created, this likewise calls for legislative enactment.

Here then is a three point programme, urgently needed and demanding immediate formulation and adoption if the state of Missouri is to receive federal aid for child welfare services under the terms of the Social Security Bill.

CHAPTER 4 WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Javert, inspector of police in a small town in Alsace, suspects M. Madeleine, magistrate and mayor of the town, and Jean Valjean, ex-galley slave, of being one and the same man. He reports the findings of his exhaustive research work to the authorities. Convinced that he is right, however, Javert dogs M. Madeleine's every step certain that sometime, in some way he will make a mis-step—and then he'll get his man.

Fight and Flight

Jean has to make up his mind whether he will save Champmathieu or not. As he stares, he instinctively feels the iron collar round his neck—it galls him. He feels the chain is on his foot. The cunning, crafty look comes back into his face. Why should he give it all up? In a moment of hysterical rage he cries out: "Toussaint! Cancel the carriage; I'm not going."

As he comes to this decision his eyes light upon the bishop's candlesticks. The sight of them brings him up short. He stares at them fascinated. The cunning look fades. "No, I go to Arras at once."

The court is filled to capacity, but Jean is ushered to a place behind the magistrate's chair. The old convict, Champmathieu, is standing between two gendarmes. The only similarity between him and Jean is in the build, and with his rough beard and hair he has the same expression Jean bore while in the galleys. There is no resemblance in features.

The unfortunate, half-stupid defendant is saddled with all the evidence piled up against Jean Valjean. Brevet, Champmathieu, Cocheppaille, Jean's companions of the galley, all too readily identify him.

"You all know me? You recognize me? Good—I say—good—splendid—ha, ha! All right, send me back to prison—You might as well—for all the chance they ever give you. If that's justice, send me back, I say! Send me back!"

The helpless agony of the man is too much for Jean. He comes to a conclusion, and as Champmathieu concludes his hysterical outburst he leaps to his feet.

"Brevet! Champmathieu! Cocheppaille! Look this way!"

All eyes in the court turn to Jean, standing among the privileged spectators. Jean walks across the court to the witnesses, turns and speaks to the court as a whole.

"I Am Jean Valjean"

"Sir—I apologize—I beg your attention—a great injustice—the witnesses are mistaken—it is not the man—I am Jean Valjean!"

The announcement makes a sensation. The counsel looks up at the judge.

"But it's M. Madeleine, isn't it?"

"Everybody knows him—he must be ill."

"You think I'm mad, gentlemen? My mind is clear, very clear. Look, I'll show you."

"Brevet! You had number 13 place. You paid the warden ten francs to change it to number 12."

Brevet looks at him in amazement.

"Champmathieu, your left shoulder is burned. You tried to efface the marks of the branding iron."

"Cocheppaille, your right arm, a date in blue letters put on with burnt powder. Lift up your sleeve!"

Cocheppaille does so and shows the mark.

"But, M. Madeleine," interrupts the judge.

"There is no M. Madeleine. There is only Jean Valjean. The law has a case against me. I shall be ready. You know where I am to be found."

But Jean never expects them to find him. His one thought is to lose himself as quickly as possible. He goes to the hospital to leave himself with Fantine to take care of herself and Cosette. Javert arrives on his heels. He is no longer the humble, deferential person. This man, M. Madeleine, humiliated him before.

Fantine falls back in a fit of coughing in her excitement.

"Jean Valjean, I arrest you by order of the court. We want the saintly M. Madeleine, the forgiving Christian. Yes, you could afford to be lenient, couldn't you? You could afford to let me crawl to you and to forgive me. How beautifully you did it! Didn't you laugh to yourself afterwards—laugh heartily at that fool, Javert, cringing to you—because all the time you knew I was right—M. Madeleine—Jean Valjean—convict!"

The shock is too much for the fast-tiring Fantine. With a faint cry, "Cosette! Cosette!" she falls back on the pillow-dead.

Jean moves slowly to Javert, his anger mounting.

"You did it! Your very presence killed her. So? Cosette shall go to an institution, eh? It's the law, is it? But this is an old law—older than ours—"

Then the whole of his restraint gives way and with something of the strength and fury of the man of the galleys he seizes Javert by the throat and hurls him across the room with terrific force against the wall. Javert drops to the floor, insensible.

Jean and Cosette are standing at the doorway of the Convent Petit St. Jean, outside of Paris. The mother superior is reading a note Jean himself has penned:

"This will introduce my good friend, M. Duval, and his daughter Cosette." It is signed M. Madeleine.

"M. Madeleine has always been most generous to us," says the nun.

RECOVERY NOTES

Compiled by Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State.

The National House of Representatives has passed an appropriation bill providing millions for new federal buildings throughout the country. Missouri cities in which new structures, mostly post offices, will be erected include Fredericktown, Kansas City, Monett, Pleasant Hill, St. Louis, Cape Girardeau, California, Clinton, Flat River, Higginsville, Jackson, Kennett, La Plata, Lees Summit, Marceline, Rolla, Salem, Springfield, St. Genevieve, St. Joseph and Vandalia.

There is no M. Madeleine, there is only Jean Valjean.

His last bequest came as a godsend. He asks us to look after your little girl and give you a position as gardener here.

"Is that possible?" queries Jean anxiously.

"We'll do anything for M. Madeleine, and in helping you we shall feel that in some way we are repaying him for his goodness to us."

Five Cloistered Years

For five peaceful years the cloister walls of the convent served as a kindly shield and haven from the law. Jean's surprise for Cosette upon graduation is a dignified but modest house near the Bois, in Paris. She is seen quite constantly in the company of young Marius, leader of the Students' Society for Law Reform, which is literally snowing under the French capital with literature decrying the present penal laws and unjust, inhuman punishment—a cause that strikes home with Jean. Cosette and Marius are rapidly falling in love.

Javert again appears on the scene. This time he is shadowing several of the young revolutionists, Marius among them, in an attempt to get to a possible "higher-up" who is supplying funds to the reform society. His trail leads him unknowingly to Jean's house. But Jean had caught a glimpse of him through the garden fence, and, realizing Javert has recognized him, and sensing trouble, slips out the back way with Cosette as Javert hammers frantically at the front door.

It is Javert who comes to the door when Marius arrives to speak to Jean of his love for Cosette.

"Nobody's here!" is Javert's curt greeting.

"But didn't they leave any word for me?"

"They left no message—for anybody."

"Have you an address?"

"Not yet!" (grimly).

"But I must find them—my name is—"

"I know your name and I know your address, and you know what's good for you, you'll get along."

Marius, after a look, turns and goes. Javert puts a gendarme on his trail.

Throughout the forty-eight states of the Union a total of 3,804 model homes are now in progress of construction at a conservatively estimated cost of $23,000,000, the Federal Housing Administration announces. This building program was started on June 15, National Better Housing Day.

The Missouri River is again an artery of trade. On June 26 51,000 bushels of wheat started floating down the "Big Muddy" from Kansas City bound for Chicago. River men are elated by the sudden boom in river traffic.

Complete figures for iron and steel production in the United States during 1934, as compiled by the American Iron and Steel Institute, show total steel output including metal for castings, at 26,055,289 tons. This compares with 23,232,347 tons in 1933.

Construction projects are under way or being planned in numerous Missouri cities. Pine Lawn is to have a 3-story hospital costing $200,000; Clayton is building a hospital addition costing $442,000; the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company is to spend $100,000 for improvements on its plant at Crystal City; the Chevrolet Motor Company is building a $125,000 addition to its assembling plant in St. Louis.

Business is firm in the fact of approaching summer dullness, according to a nation-wide survey just completed by the Administrative and Research Corporation of New York. Its weekly index of business trend increased to 74.6 for the week ending June 15, as against 73.0 for the previous week and 71.8 for the corresponding week last year.

The number of families on federal relief rolls declined 3.7 per cent in the April-May period, according to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator. In April there were 4,260,790 families on relief and in May but 4,101,913.

Advertising during May registered a gain of 2.1 per cent over same period a year ago, according to Printers' Ink. The advertising index for May stands at 81.2 as compared with 79.8 for April.

Bank clearings continue to soar. For the week ending June 26th, the total for leading cities was $4,997,480,000 as against $4,372,784,000 for the same week of last year. The increase is 14.3 per cent. Dunn and Bradstreet announces.

Missouri's capital, Jefferson City, is making plans for a huge building and improvement program, for which it expects to receive thousands in federal funds. The tentative program includes $450,000 for new school buildings and additions, and indefinite sums for a new county jail, convention hall and armory, central park, street improvements, and bridge and viaduct construction.

Skilled labor is in demand in the United States, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. A shortage of 1193 skilled craftsmen has been reported by 287 metal manufacturers.

ing companies employing 115,260 wage-earners.

Construction was started during the past week on four new PWA building contracts in Missouri. Southwest City is to have a new waterworks costing $52,968; an addition to the Hannibal power plant is to cost $160,290; a Wash Railroad bridge over the Missouri River at Sands is to cost $150,681, and a detention home in Kansas City is to be erected at a cost of $226,727. Work on 75 PWA projects is now under way in Missouri. The estimated cost of same is $29,873,141.

Engineering construction awards for the past week were reported by the Engineering News-Record as totaling $31,047,000. This represents a four day period only, due to the Memorial Day holiday. Of this amount $18,711,000 is for private work, $3,032,000 for federal work and $9,304,000 for state and municipal awards.

Despite adverse Washington influence, business sentiment is holding up remarkably well. The Administrative and Research Weekly Index of Business Trend advanced to 72.9 for the week ended May 18, as compared with 72.5 for the previous week and 72.8 for the corresponding week last year.

St. Louis, Mo., July 3—Following a break in their present home stay occasioned by a journey to Chicago for a Fourth of July double-header with the Cubs, the world champion St. Louis Cardinals will take the field at Sportsman's Park this week-end against the Cincinnati Reds.

The series with the Reds consists of three contests, a single game on Saturday (July 6) and a double-header Sunday (July 7). The Saturday game starts at 2:30 p. m. and the double-header at 1:30 p. m.

While the Reds are far from the top in the pennant race, they have a disconcerting way of upsetting the more powerful contenders as was evidenced by their taking all three of their games with the Cardinals in their series in Cincinnati last week. When the Reds come to St. Louis the Cardinals will battle every step of the way to turn the tables and sweep the series and fans will see three spectacular ball games.

Following the Cincinnati series the Cardinals will journey to Cleveland for the All-Star Game. The Red Birds will be well represented on the National League squad by Manager Frankie Frisch, Dizzy Dean, Joe Medwick, Pepper Martin, Rip Collins and Burgess Whitehead.

The Cardinals return to Sportsman's Park Thursday, July 11, opening a series with the Phillies on that day and continuing to battle with Manager Jimmie Wilson's Philadelphia aggregation over the week-end, playing a double-header with them on Sunday, July 14. The Championship flag emblematic of the Cardinals' victory over the Detroit Tigers in the World Series will be raised and the members of the team will be presented with their World Series rings. Judge Landis, Commissioner of baseball and Ford Frick, President of the National League will be present to participate in the ceremonies.

Following the Phillie Series the Cardinals play four games here with the Boston Braves on successive days, then meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in four contests with a double-header Sunday, July 21. The home stay will be completed with a six-game series against the New York Giants starting with a single game Monday, July 22. Double-headers with the Giants are scheduled July 23 and 25.

OUTDOOR NEWS BRIEFS

Big Lake in Holt County, nearly dry last summer, is rapidly filling with water, according to reports from the park superintendent. The level of the lake has raised over three feet, caused by the high stage of the Missouri River. Now that the lake has been replenished with water, Big Lake State Park will no doubt be enjoyed again by thousands of anglers and pleasure seekers.

Those who have not visited Bennett Spring State Park in recent weeks will have a pleasant surprise in store for them when they view the new dam and the bridge which spans the spring branch. Especially attractive to trout fishermen is the deep pool of water that has formed above the dam. The old dam, which is completely covered with water, has been left in place. The new bridge is approximately 240 feet in length and has been faced with native sandstone.

Special reports on fishing conditions in the Lake-of-the-Ozarks region are being prepared each week by C. P. Everson of Versailles. He is getting out a detailed report covering the various resorts and fishing places around the lake. The report will be furnished interested anglers.

About one-third of the 1100 fur dealers of Missouri have already sent in the records of their take of skins during the past season. This is in response to a circular letter sent from Columbia by Rudolf Bennett and W. O. Nagel, assistant wildlife technicians, U. S. National Park Service, as a part of the game survey of Missouri, the results of which are now being compiled.

"Missouri is at the crossroads of vacation land. Nowhere within easy access of so many people is there such a diversity of interesting outdoor opportunities. Health resorts, recreation centers, vacation spots, state parks, preserves, and fish hatcheries are all reached by improved state highways."—Missouri Magazine.

"Camera hunting affords all the thrills of the rifle, the arrow, the trap and the rod, and leaves its 'victims' to be enjoyed by other nature lovers." Walter E. Hastings, a Mississippi nature camera-man and author says. The Missouri State Parks afford excellent opportunity for those who would try their skill with the kodak or take motion pictures of moving objects.

The Mark Twain Centennial celebration this year has materially increased the number of visitors to Mark Twain State Park 18 miles east of Paris, Missouri.

The natal home of Samuel L. Clemens is located in the park and over it a permanent shelter built. Other features of the park are picnic and camp grounds. Good fishing is to be had in Salt River which flows through the park. The park contains about 120 acres and is being improved by a crew of workmen. Both the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls have permanent camps in the park.

While fishing conditions in Missouri continue to be affected adversely by rain and high water, they are much improved over what they have been for the greater part of the time since the season opened May 30. Waters are receding at many points. Streams running into the Lake-of-the-Ozarks are beginning to clear and offer some sport but the main body of the lake is to muddy to make for successful angling conditions. Trout anglers report success at Bennett Springs and Roaring River State Parks.

A DIRTY TRICK

Last week a man walked into the postoffice here and bought a postcard. He proceeded to write it full, but not of English but some foreign language. The gang over at the postoffice declared such action a "danged dirty trick" to do such to their chief diversion, and they say John Bingham and some of the boys and girls are studying up on foreign languages so they won't be caught in any such predicament again. That's the way the story was told us, but we don't believe a word of it.—Dexter Statesman.

Jeannette Gow, 28, of Brookline Mass., parked her car in a puddle of water and stepped into a store. When she returned and touched the door handle, she was electrocuted. During her absence an electric wire had fallen into the water, heavily charging all metal parts. Efforts to revive her were futile.

A factory worker in Reval, Estonia had a diseased dog which he proposed to destroy by blowing him up with dynamite. He took the dog outside the town limits, attached the dynamite, ignited the fuse. The dog broke loose from his tether and started for home while startled residents made for cover. The animal was killed before it reached home, being blown to bits in the middle of the road.

The AAA's plan to continue its wheat control program for another four years has won the overwhelming approval of farmers in all of the thirty-seven states which voted on the proposal. The

THE LAWS OF LIVING BODIES

All living machinery is governed by absolute laws, the laws of nature. It is easier for human bodies to be well than sick. Disease is a result of a definite cause. There can be no effect without a cause. Health is the normal, natural result of body action when it is not interfered with. Health of human organs depends upon their normal position and support, without pressure or irritation.

HAROLD PITMAN HURT IN 2 AUTO ACCIDENTS

Harold Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pitman, is now recovering from painful injuries which he suffered in two automobile accidents near West Plains, Sunday night.

Mr. Pitman sustained a fractured collarbone and cuts on his legs, face and arms. He will remain in bed at his home in West Plains for several days.

The first accident happened at 8 o'clock as Mr. and Mrs. Pitman were returning with another couple from a spring near West Plains after a swimming party and picnic supper. As they traveled a supplementary route towards home, their car left the road and turned over in a ditch. Although he was thrown twenty feet from the car, Mr. Pitman was not seriously injured, and after righting the machine, the couples drove on while one person stood on a running board to make the car operate without difficulty.

At a point ten miles from West Plains, however, the automobile again left the road. It was in this wreck Mr. Pitman was hurt. While one couple went for help, Mrs. Pitman stayed with her husband. Members of the party did not arrive home until 3:15 the following morning.

Mr. Pitman is employed at the H. & F. store in West Plains.

SHOPPING IS SUCH A PROBLEM!

Excuse Us, Madam...

BUT IS THIS YOU?

No need to be panicky about it, when you're trying to make a few unstretchable dollars cover a multitude of purchases. There's always The Standard to help straighten things out.

Most Sikeston women do use The Standard ads as a guide to savings—not now and then, but every day. In fact, this shopping guide business is one of the newsiest jobs a newspaper has—for as we've said so often, "Not all the news is on the front page."

For instance: It's news when you read that you can get those broadcloth shirts for 89c instead of the $1.50 you thought you'd have to spend. The saving may mean porterhouse instead of round steak tonight. And, incidentally, a glance at the ads may tell you that porterhouse is a "special" at so-and-so's market today. That's news, too.

Most every little fact in a Standard ad must be worth-while news to you—or your merchant wouldn't be spending money to tell you about it. Make it a regular habit to read all the ads before you plan your shopping—you'll find that a lot of those unstretchable dollars are pretty elastic after all!

LEAKING ROOFS HOME OWNERS' CHIEF CONCERN

Leaky roofs are the chief concern of city home owners, while wells and other sources of water supply are the main worry of the farmers, according to an analysis of the requests for information being received by the Federal Housing Administration.

Painting comes next in both lists and frequently is coupled with roofs in the inquiries from city dwellers.

Home owners and farmers are by no means the only ones seeking modernization information from the FHA. Owners of apartment houses are deeply interested according to the mail analysis, as well as owners of small stores and shops. Some of the shop owners, however, can also be classed as home owners, as they own the building and live over the shop.

Texas Mills Active

Builders, lumber men and manufacturers of special building supplies also are keeping in close touch with the modernization program of the FHA. Most active of them all, apparently are the owners of small lumber mills in Texas. That state heads the list in volume of inquiries of all kinds, with a large proportion of all the Texas lumber mills represented. Pennsylvania comes second and New York third among the States.

Nearly every phase of Modernization is mentioned in the flood of mail pouring in on the FHA. Even termites, or "white ants", figure in the inquiries since protection against this pest is a problem in some sections of the country.

Both rooms, heating systems and plumbing generally are the subjects of some inquiries, while large numbers of home owners plan to build additional rooms to their houses to provide permanent quarters for those taken in during the "doubling up" process of recent years. "Father and Mother are living with us now", several writers state, "and we need an extra room for them."

Farmers' Interests Many

Farmers also are interested in many things in addition to wells. They inquire about the possibility of modernization loans for fences, gates, garages, poultry houses, smoke houses and similar small buildings. Lighting and fire protection, insulation, reconstruction

CHANGES RECORDED IN STATE'S OFFICIAL FAMILY

A number of appointments, one promotion and several retirements were recorded recently in the "official family" at Jefferson City.

Jesse A. Mitchell, Republican, of Ava, was reappointed by Governor Park as a member of the State Tax Commission for a six year term expiring in 1941. The Tax Commission is now composed of Andy Wilcox, chairman, Andy Murphy and Mr. Mitchell. Wilcox and Murphy are Democrats.

Sergeant Eugene P. Clark of the State Highway Patrol is the new director of the State owned road station, WOS. Clark, who was appointed to the Patrol from Union Star, Mo., succeeds Pemberton Gordon, of Kansas City, who resigned. It is a merited promotion for Clark.

Two new state liquor inspectors have also been appointed by E. J. Becker, state liquor control supervisor. They are Julie Eckel and A. J. McCullen, both of St. Louis. McCullen was formerly connected with the pure food and drug department while Eckels succeeds A. F. Quellmartz, Jr., who died recently.

Transfer of supervision of the 3.2 beer law from the pure food and drug department and a large reduction in the appropriation for the State Board of Health for the years 1935 and 1936, has led to the retirement of Dr. M. O. Raine of Downing, as pure food and drug supervisor. The post will be left vacant, according to health department officials. Lack of funds also resulted in the retirement of several other employees of the health bureau.

3,540 NEW CONVICTS AT PRISON IN 1933 AND 1934: AGES RANGED FROM 14 TO 83

A total of 3,540 individuals have been received at the Missouri State Prison during the last two years, 1933 and 1934, according to the biennial report of the State Department of Penal Institutions, which was recently made public.

The ages of the prisoners, the report shows, ranged from 14 to 83. Ten boys 16 years or younger, and fourteen men 70 years or older, entered the penitentiary gates during the period. The peak years were from 21 to 24. There were 203 who were 21, 209 who were 22, the same number who were 23, and 198 were 24.

Nearly 56 per cent of the new prisoners were native-born Missourians, 1971 of the 3540 admitted being in that class. Neighboring states furnished a large portion of the remainder. Only sixty were foreign-born.

Almost one-third of the persons entering during the two years were sentenced for burglary, 1000 having been sent to prison on that charge. Seven hundred and ninety-five were convicted of larceny, 628 of robbery, 261 of homicide, 242 of forgery, 95 of rape, 46 of fraud, 44 of sex offenses, 39 of stealing property, and 39 of traffic and motor law violations.

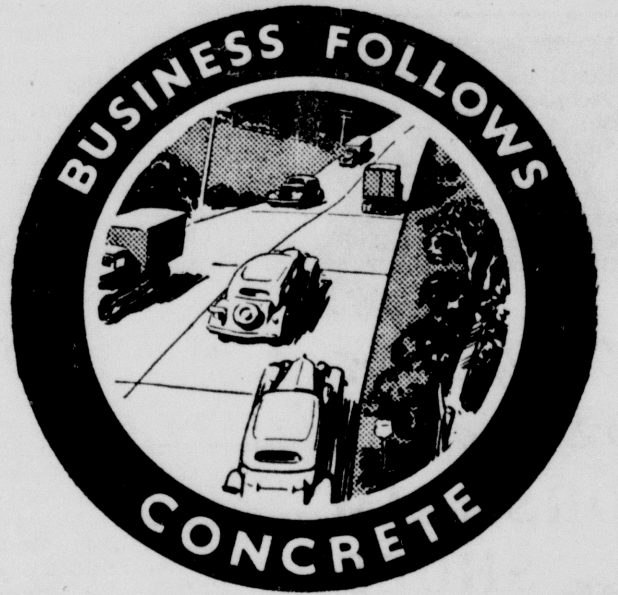

The report discloses that 68 of the new prisoners had received college educations. Nearly 80 per cent, however, had received only an eighth grade education or less. A total of 256 had never spent a day in school.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete our highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists up to 2 cents per mile less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, oil, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation . . . comfort . . . and SAFETY!

Good farm land and concrete roads have made Sikeston one of the best towns in the State. Concrete roads and streets will help any city.

Washington Comment

The Senate has passed the farm tenant bill, but there remains such details as consideration by the House, the President's O.K., and so on. Perhaps its most interesting provision is that tenants and others may borrow money for farm improvement and the purchase of homesteads. About a billion dollars will be made available. The sentiment against the bill finds its clearest expression in the statement that it is not well for the federal government to become a landlord.

It is said that a "share the wealth" measure will pass Congress within five days. Assuming that it goes through and is put into operation, and that everyone gets his share, about five days will elapse after the sharing before another sharing will be in order.

In the trouble between Italy and Ethiopia, the African nation hopes to band all Mohammedan peoples together against Moslem action, on the grounds that the Koran charges Moslems to help the Ethiopians in time of trouble. Unless Mohammedans stick closely to the bible than many Christians do to the precepts of their corresponding sacred volume, Ethiopia is likely to be left holding the sack, so far as aid from the quarter mentioned is concerned.

Col. Lindbergh has constructed a device for promoting the circulation of the blood. MOVIE TO BE SHOWN AT LOCAL HOME SERVICE FEATURE

Final arrangements for an unusual and interesting Home Service School have been made by Lee O'Reilly, Norge dealer here, and a large attendance is expected, according to Mrs. O'Reilly.

"We are conducting a combined cooking and homemaking school at The Rex Theatre on Tuesday, July 9th at 2 p. m." continued Mrs. O'Reilly. "A new feature of this afternoon session will be the showing of the movie, 'Norging Ahead Together', a clever entertaining sound film built around the theme of use savings and value of modern home conveniences. This film marks the return to the screen of Beverly Bayne, famous star of silent days who is lovelier than ever and will have no difficulty in re-establishing herself on the modern screen.

"Elsa Bradley, noted home economist, will conduct the sessions and demonstrate the uses and savings of home conveniences, with particular emphasis on Rollator-Refrigeration and the new Norge kitchen range. New and intriguing recipes will be prepared and demonstrated at each session and housewives will be given an opportunity to exchange ideas and learn new methods in modern home-making.

"Popularity of cooking schools rivals that of bridge parties among modern housewives, and we are happy to be able to take advantage of this, as it gives us an opportunity to express our appreciation for the interest they have shown in our products, by arranging this educational and entertaining program. We hope all home-makers will take advantage of this invitation. In addition, we have arranged for delightful surprises that will be interesting and valuable to all who attend," concluded Mrs. O'Reilly.

FINDS OLD SILVER COIN WHILE CHOPPING COTTON

While he was chopping cotton in a field by the old cemetery north of town near the Grover Baker home, Jesse Dockins unearthed a rare, worn, silver coin. It is 148 years old.

Although impressions on it are faded, persons inspecting it may note the date of its mintage, 1787, and the name Carolus III on one side and a crest or coat-of-arms on the other. The coin has a neat hole punched near the edge, indicating that it had been worn as an ornament or "lucky piece."

Mr. Dockins intends to keep the coin as a souvenir.

County Farm Inmates Eligible for Pensions

Inmates of county poor farms, or infirmaries, have the right to make application for and to receive old age assistance under the new state old age pension law.

An opinion to this effect was written recently by Oliver W. Nolen, assistant attorney general of Missouri, in answer to a query by W. Ed Jameson, chairman of the state eleemosynary board, which will supervise the old age pension law administration.

The opinion holds that county farm inmates are entitled to the same consideration as any other person possessing the necessary qualifications for a pension.

FULL INFORMATION ABOUT OLD AGE PENSIONS TO BE PUBLISHED SEPTEMBER 1

Members of the Scott county court have learned from state eleemosynary board that county old age pension committees can take no official action until the date the pension law becomes effective August 27, H. C. Watkins, Jr., clerk of the county court, announced Wednesday.

For that reason the court did not appoint a committee for Scott county at its meeting this week. Numerous inquiries have been received by the court and by attorneys from residents who consider themselves eligible for pensions.

On about September 1, Mr. Watkins said, information regarding procedure to follow in applying for pensions will be published in all Scott county newspapers.

PAGING POTATO SALAD

It's time to turn to the page "Potato salad" in cook-books, for this piquant, refreshing dish is typical of summer, and there are few dishes so useful after June has turned the corner. We naturally associate potato salad with picnics and cruises on the water during warm weather months, but it also has a great affinity for cold, paper-tin slices of meats and tinkling iced drinks in the menus we serve at home.

Every one has his own distinct ideas of what potato salad should be. Personally we think any salad is a disappointment that doesn't contain sections of crisp, fresh cucumbers and hard-cooked eggs. But everyone to his own taste. One famous chef relies upon potatoes, onions, blanched almonds and finely chopped parsley to uphold his reputation in a potato salad. He uses two kind of dressings, of course, first a French dressing, which is poured over coarsely mashed potatoes while they are still warm; then a special boiled dressing which is thoroughly mixed in with the other ingredients. Of course the salad is chilled thoroughly before serving.

There's nothing in substantial, main-dish salads so fresh and satisfying at this time of year than a mixed potato salad using potato, a cucumber, a bunch of scallions, stuffed olives, fresh radishes, sweet gherkin pickles, cold, cooked beets, and hard-boiled eggs. This salad should be seasoned well with salt, pepper and celery salt and mixed generously with mayonnaise. But if we didn't have fresh cucumbers, we would certainly use small cucumber pickles, as is done in a recipe we know which calls simply for cold boiled potatoes, diced celery, fresh peas, minced olives and the pickles.

The dressing we use for potato salad is the final arbiter of its flavor. If you do not have some favorite boiled dressing recipe which seems to carry your potato salad far out of the ordinary, use either French dressing or mayonnaise. A little tarragon vinegar and onion juice added will "step up" their flavor.

Almost any kind of salad with a foundation of boiled potatoes seems to rate the name of potato salad. It is made with herring, sardines, chopped bologna and other sausage, and with finely cut ham, and this kind of salad with a vegetable and dessert makes a satisfying supper on a very hot evening.

Potato salads with a variety of crisp, fresh ingredients should be tossed together lightly so that all ingredients are thoroughly marinated in the dressing. A wooden fork or spoon should be used to avoid crushing the cubed vegetables. Have you seen the smart new wooden bowls made with tight-fitting covers and handles. A salad can be shaken in one of them as merrily as a cocktail.

POTATO SALAD

3 cups potatoes
3 tablespoons minced onion.
1tbsp green pepper (chopped)
3-4 cup cucumbers (diced)
2 hard boiled eggs, salad dressing, seasoning.
Dice boiled potatoes fine. Add minced onion, finely chopped green pepper, cucumber and egg, saving one-half egg for garnishing to cooled potatoes. Add seasonings of salt, pepper, paprika, and celery seed. Add salad dressing and serve in a large nest of lettuce leaves. Garnish with one-half hard boiled egg and dressing.

SALAD DRESSING

1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon mustard (dry)
2 tablespoons flour.
3 tablespoons sugar.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
2 eggs
3-4 cups milk or water
1-4 cup mild vinegar.
2 tablespoons butter.
Combine salt, mustard, flour, sugar and paprika. Add slightly beaten eggs, water or milk, vinegar and butter. Cook over low heat stirring frequently until thickened. Store in refrigerator in sealed jar until desired for use.

COMBINATION SALAD

1 cup peas
1 cup shredded raw carrots
1 cup celery (cut in slivers)
1 cup cucumbers (sliced thin)
3-4 cup mayonnaise
2 cups of cold boiled ham (cut fine).
1-2 cup radishes (sliced fine).
Salt and pepper.
Make up as individual salads on lettuce nest. Do not combine ingredients other than placing a layer of cucumbers then carrots, ham, celery etc. Serve mayonnaise to one side. This makes a delicious luncheon dish when served with toasted English muffins. Make sure that vegetables are crisp and thoroughly chilled before making salad.

In a horse race at Brookline, Mass., Hurray Harry won the race and also took down place and show money, because he was the only horse to finish. Four other entries got in a tangle and fell.

While recovering from an automobile accident, A. L. Henrichs of Poplar Bluff, Mo., has carved a pictorial history of Missouri on a 30-foot, two-ton log. In chronological order from the top to the ground are: Hernando De Soto, Boone, bear, beaver, the state seal, Alexander McNair, Mark Twain, and many other emblems of Missouri such as a cornucopia pipe and a mule.

One hour after he started a painting job, Frank Tokash of St. Louis fell from the second-story of a baking company building. The Missouri Compensation Commission last week confirmed an award of $8800 for the accident.

Missouri Facts

Here are some "Missouri Facts" from Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown's Blue Book:

Missouri is one of the world centers in production of chemicals.

St. Louis has the best public school buildings in the United States.

Kansas City surpasses all eastern cities in the extent of its connected park and boulevard system, announced as unequalled in America.

Missouri is the birthplace of osteopathy, and Kirksville in Adair county is the home of the greatest osteopathic school in the world.

Mexico in Audrian County, Missouri, has long held high honors as the national saddle horse center, oftentimes being called the "Saddle Horse Capital of the World".

Missouri has 560 miles of water front along the Mississippi River, and water front along both sides of the Missouri River for 208 miles through the center of the State.

Missouri was the home of Captain James B. Eads, the world-famous engineer and designer of the St. Louis bridge bearing his name and the Mississippi River jetties at the Gulf.

Iron county, Missouri, was the headquarters of General Ulysses S. Grant on the day he received his commission as General of the Army of the United States. Iron county is so named because it is the home of the mountain of iron ore.

The area of Missouri is greater than any state bordering on the Mississippi River except Minnesota, and larger than the combined areas of Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Delaware, leaving ample space remaining for another state equally as large as Rhode Island.

Here are some "Missouri Facts" from Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown's Blue Book:

The first permanent settlement in Missouri was established at Ste. Genevieve in 1735.

One of America's greatest humorists and most beloved authors was a Missourian—Mark Twain.

The first civil marriage record in Missouri was on April 20, 1776 at St. Louis; the first postoffice in 1804; the first ferry in about 1805.

Missouri is situated between the 36th and 41st degrees north latitude, and between the 89th and 96th degree of west longitude.

A Missourian was the discoverer of the poison gas cure adopted by the French Army during the World War—Lieutenant Julien A. Gehring, a native of St. Louis.

A Missourian was the first American to carry the stars and stripes at the head of American troops on the streets of London during the World War. He was General John J. Pershing.

Citizens of Benton, Ill., blinked their eyes when they saw an old-fashioned ball and chain gang at work on the city streets. Police Chief Newman resorted to an old ordinance which made ball and chain gangs possible, when the county's quota at the state penal farm at Joliet was exhausted.

Large deposits of high-grade alumina materials, sometimes analyzing as high as 75 per cent aluminum, may be found in Missouri.

Missouri stands high in tripoli, is a big producer of commercial sands, and is celebrated for its non-plastic fire clays.

The first Missouri industry was lead mining which was started by the French in about 1719 near Fredericktown in Madison county.

Coal measures underlie 25,000 square miles of Missouri land, scattered over many counties and varying thickness from eighteen inches to five feet.

Missouri is an important clay-working state. It ranks among the first five states of the Union in the manufacture of fire, fancy and enameled brick and sewer pipe and drain tile.

Glass sand of the finest commercial quality is found in large quantities in a narrow belt extending from Callaway County to Cape Girardeau County. It is used in the manufacture of the finest plate glass.

Missouri is the home of "Carthage Marble" or "Carthage Stone", which is found in different formations in several southern counties—sometimes called "Miracle Stone"—and is recognized as one of the finest building materials.

It was used exclusively in Missouri's new state capitol at Jefferson City, which is recognized as one of the most beautiful state structures in America.

3.2 Beer Act Provides Fees and Regulations

An ordinance regarding the manufacture and sale of 3.2 percent beer, setting down license fees, and providing penalties for violations of regulations was passed Monday night at a regular monthly council meeting.

The ordinance was written by Robert Dempster, city attorney, in accordance with state laws governing 3.2 beer.

Under the act, these fees will be charged for licenses to be issued by Elmos Taylor, city collector: for manufacture and sale by manufacturer, $300 a year; for sale by distributor or wholesaler, $50 a year; for sale for consumption on the premises, $20 a year; for sale by grocers, other merchants, and dealers in the original package direct to the consumer and not for resale or consumption in the place of sale, $15 a year. Licenses will be pro-rated for 1935 but during no subsequent year. They will not be transferrable and will be due as of January 1 each year.

Included in regulations governing the sale of 3.2 beer are sections stating that no person holding a license may sell the beer between 1:30 and 6 in the morning. Further, no person having a 3.2 license may secure one for sale of intoxicating liquor.

Persons selling liquor with only a 3.2 license; those mixing alcohol with 3.2 at their business establishments; those selling without permits; those opening original packages in places where licenses do not allow such action; those drinking from the package at the place of sale will be considered guilty of misdemeanors and may be fined $500 and placed in jail for 90 days or may be given both punishments. Licenses may be revoked.

Until this year, municipalities were not allowed to regulate or license the sale of 3.2 beer. The full text of the ordinance will be published in the Tuesday issue of The Standard.

J. Otto Hahs Mechanical Horses Win Blue Ribbon

Mechanical horses invented by J. Otto Hahs were awarded a blue ribbon in the development and exercise class at a national inventors' congress held last week at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago.

Mr. Hahs exhibited eight horses at the convention, as well as an electrically operated cradle. He returned home Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Buchanan, who accompanied him to the congress.

Mr. Hahs left one horse in Chicago, where it will be tried out at one of three health clubs operated there by Charles M. Postl, who has spent many years in "revitalizing" men and women. Mr. Postl will soon install other horses in his clubs.

Mr. Postl, who also has a club at Valparaiso, Fla., is president of the Associated Health Clubs, an organization whose members have establishments in all the principal cities in the United States.

It is possible that Buddy Rogers, the famous orchestra leader and movie star, will also become a devotee of Mr. Hahs' mechanical horses. Seeing them at the convention, Mr. Rogers said he would like very much to buy one for installation in his home.

While he was in Chicago, Mr. Hahs spent all one morning and part of an afternoon with Fox, Universal, and Hearst Metrocolor newsreel cameramen, who shot about 4000 feet of film showing his eight horses and his electric cradle. The film was taken on the roof of the Hotel Sherman. Two children and members of the Beef Trust club, composed of overly plump women, sat on the horses during the filming. At least one of the reels will be shown here, it is thought.

City Hall To Be Used For Semo WPA Office

Permission for the use of part of the city hall's second floor for a district works progress administration office was granted by councilmen Monday evening.

C. L. Blanton, Jr., district administrator, asked the board for office space for himself and his assistants. Alteration work will begin soon.

Judge Joseph W. Myers, justice of the peace, whose office is now on the second floor will probably move to the McCoy-Tanner building. In the corner he has occupied Harvey Harrison, district relief administrator, will place his office. Mr. Blanton will occupy the former board of public works storage room on the west side of the floor. His assistants will be housed in other offices now used by district relief workers.

The city will purchase materials necessary for construction of a women's restroom on the second floor and for repairing the city relief roof, which now leaks badly. Relief labor will be used for the work.

At the council meeting, a half-burned building on Prosperity, owned by Roscoe H. Weltecke, was declared a nuisance and ordered torn down by the city marshal within fifteen days. Councilmen also decided to serve notice to T. A. Slack, preparatory to declaring his property on Prosperity a nuisance.

At the request of Ben Welter, the city bakers' license was increased to $50 and a license of the same amount was set for trucks which come here to sell bakery products to merchants. The bakers' license was formerly $15. Mr. Welter objected to the presence of outside peddlers, who, he said sometimes sell to merchants at discounts. The high license will discourage their trade here, it is thought.

Before they adjourned, councilmen objected to the cost of operating the police department and voted Robert Dempster a $100 bonus, to be paid from the water works fund, for his work in preparing the $15,000 bond issue ordinance. They also allotted $50 for direct relief here during July. Last month's allotment was $200.

The council may meet again next week.

Three Unhurt in Truck Auto Wreck Near Cape

Three Sikestonians escaped injury early Tuesday morning when the Ford V-8 sedan in which they were riding collided with a truck on Highway 61 a few yards north of the Broadway intersection west of Cape Girardeau. Both machines were badly damaged.

The three are Kenneth Hocker, Merlyn Taylor, and Miss Betty Fisher. With them was Miss Jane McIntyre of Logansport, Ind. Hocker was driving the car, which is owned by his father, F. H. Hocker.

When the two vehicles met the 7000 pounds of cabbage being hauled to St. Louis in the truck were scattered over the highway in front of the Alvarado service station. Because a large crowd, chiefly persons who had attended a boat excursion, arrived soon, nearly all the cabbage disappeared within an hour.

The truck driver, C. W. Gunn, of Elbridge, Tenn., was accompanied by Clayburn Morgan, a relief driver. The machine, a Chevrolet, belonged to W. R. Puckett, also of Elbridge. The truck turned over near the east side of the pavement and the Ford on the west side.

BEN RITTER BUILDING NEW HOME ON MOORE

Work started Monday morning on a six-room, two-story house for Ben Ritter. The home will be located on Moore avenue opposite the high school. The Ritters will occupy it when it is finished in about six weeks.

Files Reckless Driving Charge

A complaint charging Morris Armstrong with reckless driving here May 20 was filed Tuesday in Judge Joseph W. Myers' court by Tot Chaney. In the petition, Chaney charges that Armstrong collided with his car, effecting $10 damage to it. Witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Howard and Russell Chaney.

Contentment Is Silent

that he is 3, his father has removed the basket and in its place he has put a small mechanical horse for Thomas' pleasure. The same mechanism which made the cradle rock slowly or fast now forces the animal to trot or gallop.

Entertainment Features Home Service School

A new innovation in group demonstrations will be provided local women by Lee O'Reilly, Norge dealer here, who will conduct a one day Home Service School at the Rex Theatre on Tuesday at July 9th at 2 p. m.

"We are offering unusual entertainment and instruction in this school which we believe housewives will enjoy," said Mrs. O'Reilly. "Women like sessions such as these where they can get together and exchange ideas and at the same time it gives us an opportunity to show our appreciation for their patronage, and for the outstanding preference given our products during the last year."

"Modern equipment has taken the drudgery out of house work, and new products are designed to meet the exacting requirements of actual use. Norge Corporation is convenient for building its home conveniences to fit these needs, and we are pleased to exhibit them to our customers and friends."

We are bringing Elsa Bradley, noted Home Economist here to conduct actual demonstrations of refrigerator use values and preparation of delicious cold cookery recipes. She will also demonstrate the features of the new Norge kitchen range and has a wealth of authentic and up-to-date information on food preparation and modern range cooking.

"High-lighting this afternoon's session will be the showing of the sound film, 'Norging Ahead Together' starring the famous Beverly Bayne. This delightful and humorous film is built around a home-making theme and is an entertainment in itself. Miss Bayne has never appeared more charming, and we are sure our audience will welcome the opportunity to see her again."

"In addition to this entertainment, we have a number of delightful surprises that will round out this program of educational instruction," concluded Mrs. O'Reilly.

DISTRICT I. O. O. F. MEET TO BE HELD HERE TUESDAY

Before the meeting, scheduled for 7 o'clock, members of the high school band will play. The second degree will be conferred on candidates by the Sikeston degree staff, and talks will be made by lodge members.

The Southeast Missouri area extends from Bonne Terre south to the Arkansas line and from Poplar Bluff east to the Mississippi river. About 146 lodges are active in the district.

To Grant Easement for Widening of Malone If Conditions Are Accepted

$1650 CONTRIBUTED TO NAZARENE BUILDING FUND

With an additional $100 raised Sunday for the building fund, members of the Church of the Nazarene now have $1650 cash to pay for extensions and repairs on their church.

At first needing only $1800, members will now require about $2500 to complete all necessary work. They intend to have remodeling and redecorating done as they are able to pay for labor and materials.

By Wednesday walls of the new church tower and new steps had been finished. Next week, beginning Monday, the roof will be torn off so that it may be replaced with a new one which will cover the old structure and the addition on the east side.

BLEACHERS TO BE BUILT FOR SOFTBALL GAMES

A new section of bleachers will be built soon at the high school athletic field for spectators at the softball games, William E. Mahew said Wednesday. The bleachers will be sixteen feet long and as high as the present ones. During the summer the section will be kept on the west edge of the field. In the fall it will be moved either to the north or to the south side next to ones already built.

EIGHTY-FIVE ATTEND LAIR'S COOKING DEMONSTRATION

Eighty-five women gathered at the Lair Company store Friday for a cooking demonstration on Coleman's instant gas range. R. L. Barnes, representative of the company and an expert chef, was in charge of the activities, which proved very interesting.

Along with the necessary labor incidental to broiling big thick juicy steaks and "pigs in blankets" Mr. Barnes kept up a rapid fire of cooking information which was enjoyed by the ladies. At the conclusion of the two-hour entertainment the food was sliced and served to those present.

The main purpose of the show was, of course, to demonstrate the economy and efficiency of the new Coleman and from remarks by various ladies after the performance it was evident that Mr. Barnes convinced them of its excellence.

The Lair company has exclusive distribution of this product.

SCOUTS SUCCESSFUL IN DRIVE FOR FOOD, CLOTHES

Although the number of filled sacks collected was small compared with that distributed, Scouts of Troop 43 concluded a successful drive Tuesday for articles for the Children's Home Society of Missouri. Residents filled only 150 sacks of the 700 left at doorsteps Monday.

Among the articles collected were these: 65 cans of staple canned goods, chiefly vegetables; 4 half-gallon jars, 36 quarts and 35 pints of fruits and pickles; 25 glasses of jelly; 3 pecks of potatoes; several miscellaneous grocery commodities; and a large size box of clothing, with 10 pair of trousers, 20 pair of shoes, and several dresses and baby's clothes.

The articles will be kept here until they are sent to the children's home in St. Louis under the direction of Miss Frances Marie Harman, the society's representative in Southeast Missouri.

Troop 43 Scouts are very grateful to residents for their help, which made the drive successful.

TO GIVE FACIALS, SKIN ANALYSES AT HEISSERER'S

Demonstrations of Jean Noel beauty creations will be given at Heisserer's drug store Friday and Saturday and all next week by Miss Mary Collier and Mrs. Flo Wilson.

The two women will give residents free facials and analyses of their skins. They will be happy to visit homes of residents who find it inconvenient to go to Heisserer's. They may be reached at the drug store.

"Our purpose is to give, without charge, instruction for youthful loveliness," Miss Collier said. "All women have beauty at their fingertips. We will give advice on treatment in the home care of the skin and want to show women how to use their cosmetics properly. We all know that if we give our faces ten minutes a day the mirror will prove the results."

A "Quitter," according to Reno Ruth is a woman who stops getting married after the first two bad breaks.

Ten feet of the Missouri Pacific right-of-way along Malone avenue will be given to the city by easement railroad officials told Robert Dempster and A. W. Swacker while they were here Monday.

The railroad grant will halt the city's planned condemnation suit for a strip of the right-of-way from Prairie avenue to the Frisco tracks.

In making the offer, officials set down five requests which the city council tentatively accepted at a meeting Monday night. Members of a committee appointed by Dr. G. W. Presnell agreed, however, to talk further with C. F. Dougherty, division superintendent, of Poplar Bluff, in an effort to have at least two requests removed.

These pertain to moving the Missouri Pacific watertower to the north side of the track and moving Western Union Poles. Since the watertower is twelve feet north of Malone avenue and so would be two feet beyond the widened street, committee members think moving it is unnecessary. The Western Union Poles are near the track and would not sit near Malone even after it was widened ten feet. It is possible, however, that they would interfere with telephone lines standing west of the railroad passenger station.

The committee members — J. L. Matthews, A. W. Swacker, and Murray Phillips, acting in the place of Barney Forrester, who could not serve because it was necessary for him to be out of town Tuesday—gained small encouragement when they interviewed division highway heads regarding paving of the ten-foot strip by the state highway department. It is likely that the department will this year have an appropriation for street improvements in municipalities similar to the one with which Tanner was concerned in the spring of 1934. Members of the committee intend to consult Scott Wilson, chairman of the state highway commission, and T. H. Cutler, chief engineer, about the work.

The city plans now to acquire the right-of-way strip by easement, so that if funds are available it may be paved without delay. It is possible, too, that the street will be widened and the strip filled with cinders to be used temporarily at least for parking space. WPA labor might be used in paving work.

Besides Mr. Dougherty, these Missouri Pacific officials came here Monday, staying to lunch

Charleston Savings and Loan Secretary Found Short $18,600

CHARLESTON, MO., July 2—

The Charleston Savings and Loan Association was placed in the hands of a temporary commission for liquidation today following conference between the directors and Ira McBride, supervisors of the Missouri Building and Loan Department, after a shortage of approximately $18,600 was discovered.

The Board of Directors accepted the resignation of C. L. Joslyn as director and secretary of the association and Dr. Charles W. Reed, president, said the state would immediately call on bondsmen for $5000, the amount of Joslyn's surety.

Dr. Reed said that when directors of the association realized the shortage, they immediately called McBride into conference. He said the shortage apparently occurred over a period of about five years.

Joslyn, who is a member of one of the oldest families in Charleston, has served as mayor of the city, and is at present City Treasurer.

"Mr. Joslyn," said Dr. Reed, "declares he did not realize anything personally out of the shortage. He said the banking situation during the past few years resulted in heavy withdrawals and that he had juggled the records and covered up, believing that in time the association would resume its earnings and be able to withstand the depression. He had been secretary for 18 years."

Suit For Payment of Old Warrants Filed

A suit which promises to be of widespread importance was filed in the Scott county circuit court Tuesday by Bailey & Bailey.

In the action, R. L. Bradley, as receiver for the First National Bank of Chaffee, is suing the county, seeking judgment on four county warrants issued in 1931. The warrants, which were issued to residents and later accepted by the bank, total $310.46. The plaintiff is attempting to recover that amount plus 6 per cent interest. The suit is scheduled to be heard in the August term of court.

This individual suit is small. It is thought, however, that as soon as other warrant holders learn of it, they will form a pool and file a suit of consequence for recovery of funds owed them.

There are numerous outstanding warrants in Scott county. A list of amounts was published in the June 18 issue of The Standard. The county court cannot now legally pay holders of old warrants unless they receive delinquent tax payments for the years in which warrants were issued, since 1935 funds can be used only for current expenses.

If a judgment were issued against the county, though, the court could fix a levy to pay them. For that reason the court, it is understood, is not opposed to filing of the suit. The levy would probably not be assessed until 1937, however, when road bonds expire. Because the ordinary levy will not be large that year, an additional one could be imposed to pay for the warrants without raising county taxes.

RUSSELL-BRADLEY TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Russell-Bradley Missionary Society will be held on next Tuesday night, July 9, at the Methodist church.

TWO LEAVE FOR SCOUT CAMP; OTHERS TO ENROLL JULY 14 FOR LAST WEEK

Bobby Dover and Ray Allen Moll enrolled Saturday afternoon at the area Boy Scout camp on the St. Francis river in Wayne county.

They were taken to camp by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kirk and Miss Gaydolyn Kirk. Charles Leonard Kirk, a Life Scout, who accompanied them to the camp, stayed until Wednesday to help C. G. Morrison, Scout executive and director of camp activities.

Since the camp will be filled next week, Sikeston Scouts who originally planned to enroll Sunday must wait until July 14. It is possible that ten or twelve will be taken to camp by Harry Dover.

Gordon Blanton, who will remain at the camp as a junior officer until it closes July 21, has invited all residents to visit the Scout camp, which is being operated in Wayne county for the first time this year. Visitors will be welcome, he said, and may stay an entire week-end or only during an afternoon.

ROOSEVELT SAVES FARM FOR WIDOW NEAR CARDWELL

We read in other newspapers where President Roosevelt has taken a personal interest in some individual, assisting them in recovering from effects of the recent depression, but right here in Dunklin County we have an example of a widow, about to lose her farm, who had appealed to every agency in an effort to save her homestead without success, and finally in desperation wrote a personal letter to the President, who not only requested that the sale of her land be postponed but arranged a loan, through the Federal Land Bank, which was just completed this month, and through which this woman, the mother of nine children, will be able to retain possession of her farm the remainder of her days.

Mrs. Verdie Vaughn, who lives about 5 miles south of Cardwell on Dunklin County Highway F, was about to lose her farm. As did other farmers she suffered during the depression, only more so it seems, and even before former Collector Andrew Davidson went out of office, her farm was subject to sale for taxes, but in the face of misfortunes which Mrs. Vaughn had suffered, Mr. Davidson refrained from foreclosing the 120-acre farm.

In the fall of 1933 and early in 1934, Mrs. Vaughn attempted to get a loan through the Federal Land Bank to pay up her taxes and save the farm which was scheduled to be advertised for sale, but the Federal Land Bank restrained the local agent from even accepting an application for a loan, due to three principal reasons: there were minor heirs complicating the situation; the only indebtedness was for taxes and it was against the principle and policy to lend money solely for paying taxes; and third, the land was in a restricted district where drainage or levee bonds were in default. The bank in St. Louis had informed the local agent that it was useless for an application to be presented; that it was impossible for a loan to be made.

On January 19, 1934, as a last resort, Mrs. Vaughn wrote a personal letter to President Roosevelt relating the facts of the case, including the fact that the application had been turned down, and suit on taxes was threatening. Just seven days later, on January 26, she received a telegram from the President, in which the collector was requested to withhold any tax suit.

Within a few days Mrs. Vaughn received a letter from E. Anthony, Deputy Land Bank Commissioner of Washington, D. C., requesting full details, and he enclosed a copy of a letter he had addressed to the Federal Land Bank in St. Louis telling them that an application from Mrs. Vaughn would be sent through in due time, and for it to be placed on the emergency list for positive action.

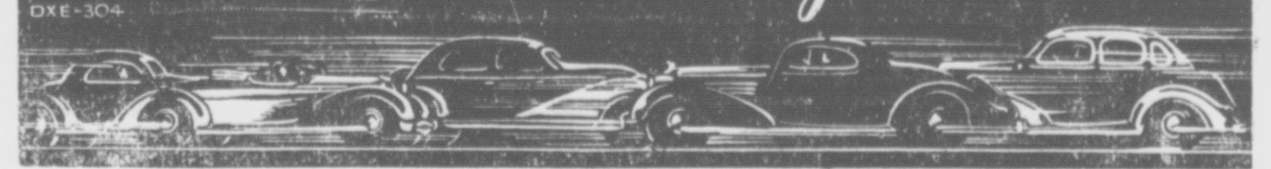

While it has taken almost a year and a half for the loan to be finally completed, due not only to the voluminous amount of red tape involved in what was once termed by the Federal Land Bank an "impossible situation", but also to the fact that Mrs. Vaughn on two different occasions was out of this county on visits delaying the signing of papers essential to the closing of the loan, everything has now been completed, according to W. F. Pierce, who lives in the same

"Currently unpaid proper taxes for 105 of Missouri's 114 counties rose from $3,577,610 in 1928 to $5,827,044 in 1932, despite the fact that tax levies decreased during the same period from $28,443,640 to $22,762,193," according to Dr. Conrad H. Harram, assistant professor in agricultural economics at the University of Missouri who has just completed a survey of tax delinquency in the state. The results of this survey have been published in a bulletin entitled "Land Tax Delinquency in Missouri." Anyone in the state of Missouri desiring a copy of this bulletin may secure it free of charge by writing to the Agricultural Editor, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

The percentage of current levies delinquent in these same counties increased from 12.58 per cent in 1928 to 25.60 per cent in 1932." Dr. Harram further states, "Both the volume and the percentage of current delinquency decreased in 1933 as compared to 1932."

"Average delinquency in 92 counties for which data were available increased from 4.51, to 504 acres in 1928 to 10,163,319 acres in 1932. Average delinquencies were particularly heavy in the Central Ozark and Southeast lowland counties. Disregarding the Southeast lowlands, where the special conditions exist, delinquency was greatest upon the poorer and least fertile lands.

"The percentage of current delinquency was heaviest in the counties of the Southeast lowlands and of the Ozark center and was least in the Ozark border and the northern Agricultural counties.

WHY A THIRD PARTY?
Plans are going forward for the meeting in Chicago next month of various dissatisfied groups with the purpose in view of organizing a third party. They seem to disregard the political history of the country, which ought to discourage such a step. There have been a series of such movements over the decades, beginning with the Anti-Masonic party, the Know-Nothings, the Populists and the Bull Moosers. All of them have fluttered for an instant and died out.

If our Republican brethren will pardon a suggestion, it would seem that here is a real chance for them. If the cave of the Adulterers has been found, here is a retreat for the G. O. P. Satisfied with nothing, recommending nothing, they could easily move in, take over the third party movement, and at least have something besides criticism to offer.

It is true that they would have to swallow a lot of distasteful ideas, but the G. O. P. is no stranger to such. The Grassroots broke the ice by lying low on

Building a Better State

By R. A. Cotner, St. Louis Children's Aid Society.

Word has reached us from Washington that the Social Security Bill may be expected to come before the Senate for consideration in the next few days. If passed, this Bill will face Missouri with the necessity of establishing her eligibility to receive the federal grants which the Bill proposes. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that our citizens begin giving serious thought and consideration to ways and means of complying with the demands laid down in this bill. In the field of Child Welfare, particularly, Missouri finds herself considerably out of line with federal requirements and therefore confronted with the necessity of making certain changes both in administration and law.

The Social Security Bill might almost be said to assume that each state is now dutifully caring for its "homeless, dependent and neglected children." This is not true of Missouri, as a state. True, she was the first state to pass a Mother's Pension Law back in 1911. But she left that Law inoperative by her failure to give it financial backing. Down through the years, she has been content to shift responsibility haphazardly to private benevolence and to city and county appropriations. As a result, while children in St. Louis and Kansas City have been fairly well cared for, the children throughout the rural areas have been shockingly unprotected. At present, less than 1500 children in the State are receiving Mother's Pensions. Most of these are in St. Louis and Kansas City where they are cared for by city appropriations which are the lowest per capita of their kind in the United States. According to recent reports, there are 5000 children throughout Missouri eligible for this form of aid who are not receiving it; and at least 4500 more who need other kinds of care and are not receiving it. Now the Social Security Bill if passed, will end this irresponsibility by offering federal grants to states which give direct financial aid to their dependent children. It has been estimated that Missouri will receive an initial sum of approximately $100,000 even upon the basis of her present inadequate appropriations for child welfare. Later, when she assumes full responsibility as a state for her dependent children, there is good reason for believing that she may receive from $800,000 to $1,000,000 annually from the Federal Government.

To receive this aid, a state must comply with certain minimum requirements outlined by the Social Security Bill and submit its plan of administration for approval to the Chief of the United States Children's Bureau. The important requirements with which Missouri must now take steps to comply are as follows:

First, the plan must be state-wide in administration. It may be administered by the counties or by a single state agency created or chosen for that purpose. In Missouri, the county system of administration is favored, and a bill, proposing to create a system of County Welfare Boards, was drafted for the last session of the State Legislature. This bill died in committee with the result that Missouri today still faces the necessity of formulating a definite administration plan for state-wide child welfare services.

Second, there must be direct financial participation both by the State and by each of its counties, it being no less mandatory upon the one than upon the other.

Third, and last among the requirements demanding immediate action is the designation of a single state agency (whether already extant or to be created whether confined to aid for dependent children or having other functions) charged with final administrative responsibilities.

While the State Children's Bureau may possibly satisfy federal requirements, a better plan might be to create a department of Public Welfare which would be charged not only with child welfare services but with all public welfare services in the State. A bill to create such a department was drafted for the last session of the Legislature, but like its sister bill calling for the creation of County Welfare Boards, it was permitted to die in committee.

This, then, is the sum of the matter; that if Missouri wishes to receive federal grants for child welfare services under the terms of the Social Security Bill, it must take immediately the following steps to satisfy minimum federal requirements:

First, it must draft a state-wide plan to be administered either by a single state agency or by county welfare boards whose administration will be supervised by a single state agency. The formulation of such a plan calls for legislative enactment.

Third, there must be a single state agency, created or designated which will be charged with final administrative responsibilities. If a new agency is to be created, this likewise calls for legislative enactment.

Here then is a three point program, urgently needed and demanding immediate formulation and adoption if the state of Missouri is to receive federal aid for child welfare services under the terms of the Social Security Bill.

RECOVERY NOTES

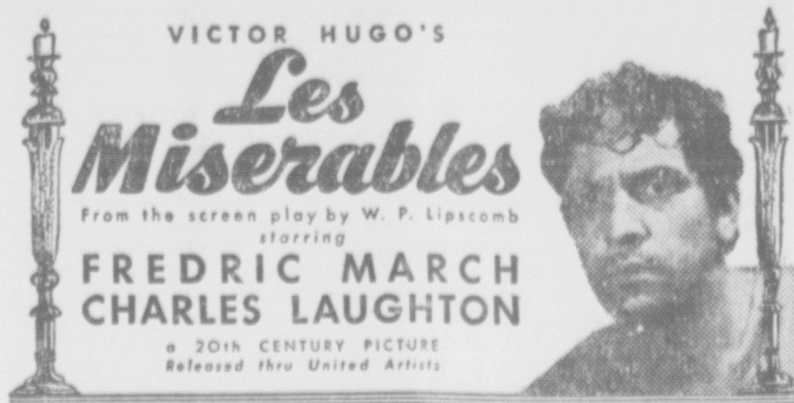

Compiled by Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State.

The National House of Representatives has passed an appropriation bill providing millions for new federal buildings throughout the country. Missouri cities in which new structures, mostly post offices, will be erected include: Fredericktown, Kansas City, Monett, Pleasant Hill, St. Louis, Cape Girardeau, California, Clinton, Flat River, Higginsville, Jackson, Kennett, La Plata, Lees Summit, Marceline, Rolle, Salem, Springfield, St. Genevieve, St. Joseph and Vandalia.

The national income during the spring of 1935 was larger than in any spring during the preceding three years, according to the Federal Reserve Board. It also reports that profits of large industrial concerns during the first quarter of 1935 exceeded those of any similar period since 1930, while industrial output was much greater than in either 1934, 1933, or 1932, and about even with 1931.

The 200 million dollars loaned by the PWA to the railroads of the nation has provided re-employment for 200,000 men on the railroads and in the heavy industries, announces PWA Administrator Ickes. The roads used the money for new equipment and improvements.

Missouri highway projects, which will be constructed with $12,154,805 of federal funds, will take more than 36,000 Missourians off of relief rolls, in the opinion of T. H. Cutler, chief engineer of the state highway department. Plans for the extensive state road building program are now being formulated.

CHAPTER 4

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Javert, inspector of police in a small town in Alsace, suspects M. Madeleine, magistrate and mayor of the town, and Jean Valjean, ex-galley slave, of being one and the same man. He reports the findings of his exhaustive research work to the authorities, but is laughed down as crazy. Convinced that he is right, however, Javert dogs M. Madeleine's every step certain that sometime, in some way he will make a mis-step—and then he'll get his man.

Fight and Flight

Jean has to make up his mind whether he will save Champmathieu or not. As he stares, he instinctively feels the iron collar round his neck—it galls him. He feels the chain is on his foot. The cunning, crafty look comes back into his face. Why should he give it all up? In a moment of hysterical rage he cries out:

"Toussaint! Cancel the carriage; I'm not going." To this decision his eyes light upon the bishop's candlesticks. The sight of them brings him up short. He stares at them fascinated. The cunning look fades.

"No, I go to Arras at once." The court is filled to capacity, but Jean is ushered to a place behind the magistrate's chair. The old convict, Champmathieu, is standing between two gendarmes. The only similarity between him and Jean is in the build, and with his rough beard and hair he has the same expression Jean bore while in the galleys. There is no resemblance in features.

The unfortunate, half-stupid defendant is saddled with all the evi-himself to the authorities again as quickly as possible. He goes to the hospital to leave money with Fantine to take care of herself and Cosette. Javert arrives on his heels. He is no longer the humble, deferential person. He remains M. Madeleine, humiliated him before.

Fantine falls back in a fit of coughing in her excitement. "Jean Valjean, I arrest you by order of the court. We want the saintly M. Madeleine, the forgiving Christian. Yes, you could afford to be lenient, couldn't you? You could afford to let me crawl to you and to forgive me. How beautifully you did it! Didn't you laugh to yourself afterwards—laugh heartily at that fool, Javert, cringing to you—because all the time you knew I was right—M. Madeleine—Jean Valjean—convict!"

The shock is too much for the fast-firing Fantine. With a faint cry, "Cosette! Cosette!" she falls back on the pillow—dead.

Jean moves slowly to Javert, his anger mounting. "You did it! Your very presence killed her. So? Cosette shall go to an institution, eh? It's the law, is it? But there's an old law—older than ours—"

Then the whole of his restraint gives way and with something of the strength and fury of the man of the galleys he seizes Javert by the throat and hurls him across the room with terrific force against the wall. Javert drops to the floor, insensible.

Jean and Cosette are standing at the doorway of the Convent Petit St. Jean, outside of Paris. The mother superior is reading a note Jean himself has penned:

"This will introduce my good friend, M. Duval, and his daughter Cosette." It is signed M. Madeleine.

"M. Madeleine has always been most generous to us," says the nun.

"There is no M. Madeleine, there is only Jean Valjean."

dence piled up against Jean Valjean. Brevet, Chenildieu, Cocheville, Jean's companions of the galley, all too readily identify him.

"You all know me? You recognize me? Good! I recognize you!—apud—ha, ha! All right, send me back to prison—You might as well—for all the chance they ever give you. If that's justice, send me back, I say! Send me back!"

The helpless agony of the man is too much for Jean. He comes to a conclusion, and as Champmathieu concludes his hysterical outburst he leaps to his feet.

"Brevet! Chenildieu! Cocheville! Look this way!" All eyes in the court turn to Jean, standing among the privileged spectators. Jean walks across the court to the witnesses, turns and speaks to the court as a whole.

"I Am Jean Valjean"

"Sir—I apologize—I beg your attention—a great injustice—the witnesses are mistaken—this is not the man—I am Jean Valjean!" The announcement makes a sensation. The counsel looks up at the judges.

"But it's M. Madeleine, isn't it?" "Everybody knows him—he must be ill."

"You think I'm mad, gentlemen? My mind is clear, very clear. Look, I'll show you—"

"Brevet! You had number 13 place. You paid the warden ten francs to change it to number 12."

Brevet looks at him in amazement. "Chenildieu, your left shoulder is burned. You tried to efface the marks of the branding iron."

"Cocheville, your right arm, a date in blue letters put on with burnt powder. Lift up your sleeve!" Cocheville does so and shows the mark.

"But, M. Madeleine," interrupts the judge.

"There is no M. Madeleine. There is only Jean Valjean. The law has a case against me. I shall be ready. You know where I am to be found."

But Jean never expects them to find him. His one thought is to lose

"His last bequest came as a godsend. He asks us to look after your little girl and give you a position as gardener here."

"Is that possible?" queries Jean anxiously.

"We'll do anything for M. Madeleine; and in helping you we shall feel that in some way we are repaying him for his goodness to us."

Five Cloistered Years

For five peaceful years the cloister walls of the convent served as a kindly shield and haven from the law. Jean's surprise for Cosette upon graduation is a dignified but modest house near the Bois, in Paris. She is seen quite constantly in the company of young Marius, leader of the Students' Society for Law Reform, which is literally snowing under the French capital with literature decriing the present penal laws and unjust, inhuman punishment—a cause that strikes home with Jean. Cosette and Marius are rapidly falling in love.

Javert again appears on the scene. This time he is shadowing several of the young revolutionists, Marius among them, in an attempt to get to a possible "higher-up" who is supplying funds to the reform society. His trail leads him unknowingly to Jean's house. But Jean had caught a glimpse of him through the garden fence, and, realizing Javert has recognized him, and sensing trouble, slips out the back way with Cosette as Javert hammers frantically at the front door.

It is Javert who comes to the door when Marius arrives to speak to Jean of his love for Cosette.

"Nobody's here!" is Javert's curt greeting.

"But didn't they leave any word for me?"

"They left no message—for any body."

"Have you an address?" "No, sir," grimly.

"But I must find them—my name is—"

"I know your name and I know your address, and if you know what's good for you, you'll get along."

Marius, after a look, turns and goes. Javert puts a gendarme on his trail.

Throughout the forty-eight states of the Union a total of 3,804 model homes are now in progress of construction at a conservatively estimated cost of $23,000,000, the Federal Housing Administration announces. This building program was started on June 15, National Better Housing Day.

plant at Crystal City; the Chevrolet Motor Company is building a $125,000 addition to its assembling plant in St. Louis.

Business is firm in the face of approaching summer dullness, according to a nation-wide survey just completed by the Administrative and Research Corporation of New York. Its weekly index of business trend increased to 74.6 for the week ending June 15, as against 73.0 for the previous week and 71.8 for the corresponding week last year.

The number of families on federal relief rolls declined 3.7 per cent in the April-May period, according to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator. In April there were 4,260,790 families on relief and in May but 4,101,913.

Advertising during May registered a gain of 2.1 per cent over same period a year ago, according to Printers' Ink. The advertising index for May stands at 81.2 as compared with 79.8 for April.

Bank clearings continue to soar. For the week ending June 26th, the total for leading cities was $4,997,480,000 as against $4,372,784,000 for the same week of last year. The increase is 14.3 per cent. Dunn and Bradstreet announces.

Missouri's capital, Jefferson City, is making plans for a huge building and improvement program, for which it expects to receive thousands in federal funds. The tentative program includes $450,000 for new school buildings and additions, and indefinite sums for a new county jail, convention hall and armory, central park, street improvements, and bridge and viaduct construction.

Skilled labor is in demand in the United States, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. A shortage of 1193 skilled craftsmen has been reported by 287 metal manufacturing companies employing 115,260 wage-earners.

Southwest City is to have a new waterworks costing $52,968; an addition to the Hannibal power plant is to cost $160,290; a Wash Railroad bridge over the Missouri River at Sands is to cost $150,681, and a detention home in Kansas City is to be erected at a cost of $226,727. Work on 75 PWA projects is now under way in Missouri. The estimated cost of same is $29,873,141.

Engineering construction awards for the past week were reported by the Engineering News-Record as totaling $31,047,000. This represents a four day period only, due to the Memorial Day holiday. Of this amount $18,711,000 is for private work, $3,032,000 for federal work and $9,304,000 for state and municipal awards.

Despite adverse Washington influence, business sentiment is holding up remarkably well. The Administrative and Research Weekly Index of Business Trend advanced to 72.9 for the week ended May 18, as compared with 72.5 for the previous week and 72.8 for the corresponding week last year.

St. Louis, Mo., July 3—Following a break in their present home stay occasioned by a journey to Chicago for a Fourth of July double-header with the Cubs, the world champion St. Louis Cardinals will take the field at Sportsman's Park this week-end against the Cincinnati Reds.

The series with the Reds consists of three contests, a single game on Saturday (July 6) and a double-header Sunday (July 7). The Saturday game starts at 2:30 p. m. and the double-header at 1:30 p. m.

While the Reds are far from the top in the pennant race, they have a disconcerting way of upsetting the more powerful contenders as was evidenced by their taking all three of their games with the Cardinals in their series in Cincinnati last week. When the Reds come to St. Louis the Cardinals will battle every step of the way to turn the tables and sweep the series and fans will see three spectacular ball games.

Following the Cincinnati series the Cardinals will journey to Cleveland for the All-Star Game. The Red Birds will be well represented on the National League squad by Manager Frankie Frisch, Dizzy Dean, Joe Medwick, Pepper Martin, Rip Collins and Burgess Whitehead.

The Cardinals return to Sportsman's Park Thursday, July 11, opening a series with the Phillies on that day and continuing to battle with Manager Jimmie Wilson's Philadelphia aggregation over the week-end, playing a double-header with them on Sunday, July 14. The Championship flag emblematic of the Cardinals' victory over the Detroit Tigers in the World Series will be raised and the members of the team will be presented with their World Series rings. Judge Landis, Commissioner of baseball and Ford Frick, President of the National League will be present to participate in the ceremonies.

Following the Phillie Series the Cardinals play four games here with the Boston Braves on successive days, then meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in four contests with a double-header Sunday, July 21. The home stay will be completed with a six-game series against the New York Giants starting with a single game Monday, July 22. Double-headers with the Giants are scheduled July 23 and 25.

OUTDOOR NEWS BRIEFS

Big Lake in Holt County, nearly dry last summer, is rapidly filling with water, according to reports from the park superintendent. The level of the lake has raised over three feet, caused by the high stage of the Missouri River. Now that the lake has been replenished with water, Big Lake State Park will no doubt be enjoyed again by thousands of anglers and pleasure seekers.

Those who have not visited Bennett Spring State Park in recent weeks will have a pleasant surprise in store for them when they view the new dam and the bridge which spans the spring branch. Especially attractive to trout fishermen is the deep pool of water that has formed above the dam. The old dam, which is completely covered with water, has been left in place. The new bridge is approximately 240 feet in length and has been faced with native sandstone.

Special reports on fishing conditions in the Lake-of-the-Ozarks region are being prepared each week by C. P. Everton of Versailles. It is getting out a detailed report covering the various resorts and fishing places around the lake. The report will be furnished interested anglers.

About one-third of the 1100 fur dealers of Missouri have already sent in the records of their take of skins during the past season. This is in response to a circular letter sent from Columbia by Rudolf Bennett and W. O. Nagel, assistant wildlife technicians, U. S. National Park Service, as a part of the game survey of Missouri, the results of which are now being compiled.

"Missouri is at the crossroads of vacation land. Nowhere within easy access of so many people is there such a diversity of interesting outdoor opportunities. Health resorts, recreation centers, vacation spots, state parks, preserves, and fish hatcheries are all reached by improved state highways."—Missouri Magazine.

"Camera hunting affords all the thrills of the rifle, the arrow, the trap and the rod, and leaves its 'victims' to be enjoyed by other nature lovers," Walter E. Hastings, a Mississippi nature camera-man and author says. The Missouri State Parks afford excellent opportunity for those who would try their skill with the kodak or take motion pictures of moving objects.

The Mark Twain Centennial celebration this year has materially increased the number of visitors to Mark Twain State Park 18 miles east of Paris, Missouri.

The natural home of Samuel L. Clemens is located in the park and over it a permanent shelter built. Other features of the park are picnic and camp grounds. Good fishing is to be had in Salt River which flows through the park. The park contains about 120 acres and is being improved by a crew of workmen. Both the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls have permanent camps in the park.

While fishing conditions in Missouri continue to be affected adversely by rain and high water, they are much improved over what they have been for the greater part of the time since the season opened May 30. Waters are receding at many points. Streams running into the Lake-of-the-Ozarks are beginning to clear and offer some sport but the main body of the lake is too muddy to make for successful angling conditions. Trout anglers report success at Bennett Springs and Roaring River State Parks.

A DIRTY TRICK

Last week a man walked into the postoffice here and bought a postcard. He proceeded to write it full, but not of English but some foreign language. The gang over at the postoffice declared such action a "danged dirty trick" to do such to their chief diversion, they say John Bingham and some of the boys and girls are studying up on foreign languages so they won't be caught in any such predicament again. That's the way the story was told us, but we don't believe a word of it.—Dexter Statesman.

Jeannette Gow, 28, of Brookline Mass., parked her car in a puddle of water and stepped into a store. When she returned and touched the door handle, she was electrocuted. During her absence an electric wire had fallen into the water, heavily charging all metal parts. Efforts to revive her were futile.

A factory worker in Reval, Estonia had a diseased dog which he proposed to destroy by blowing him up with dynamite. He took the dog outside the town limits, attached the dynamite, ignited the fuse. The dog broke loose from his tether and started for home while startled residents made for cover. The animal was killed before it reached home, being blown to bits in the middle of the road.

The AAA's plan to continue its wheat control program for another four years has won the overwhelming approval of farmers in all of the thirty-seven states which voted on the proposal. The

THE LAWS OF LIVING BODIES

All living machinery is governed by absolute laws, the laws of nature. It is easier for human bodies to be well than sick. Disease is a result of a definite cause. There can be no effect without a cause. Health is the normal, natural result of body action when it is not interfered with. Health of human organs depends upon their normal position and support, without pressure or irritation.

HAROLD PITMAN HURT IN 2 AUTO ACCIDENTS

✓ Harold Pitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pitman, is now recovering from painful injuries which he suffered in two automobile accidents near West Plains, Sunday night.

Mr. Pitman sustained a fractured collarbone and cuts on his legs, face and arms. He will remain in bed at his home in West Plains for several days.

The first accident happened at 8 o'clock as Mr. and Mrs. Pitman were returning with another couple from a spring near West Plains after a swimming party and picnic supper. As they traveled a supplementary route towards home, their car left the road and turned over in a ditch. Although he was thrown twenty feet from the car, Mr. Pitman was not seriously injured, and after righting the machine, the couples drove on while one person stood on a running board to make the car operate without difficulty.

At a point ten miles from West Plains, however, the automobile again left the road. It was in this wreck Mr. Pitman was hurt. While one couple went for help, Mrs. Pitman stayed with her husband. Members of the party did not arrive home until 3:15 the following morning.

Mr. Pitman is employed at the H. & F. store in West Plains.

ARCH RUSSELL WINS HONOR AT R.O.T.C. CAMP

According to an announcement made by Brigadier-General H. J. Brees, commandant Arch S. Russell, Jr., of Sikeston, now attending the Fort Leavenworth R.O.T.C. camp qualified as marksman with the army rifle on Friday, June 28.

The course, consisting of slow fire at 200, 300 and 500 yards, is rapid fire at 200 and 300 yards, is the same as that fired by regular army troops.

The students who qualified over such a course in this, their first year of schooling, are said by the Fort Leavenworth authorities to have accomplished a feat so difficult as to make them entitled to hearty congratulations.

The modern circus was founded about 150 years ago by the Englishman, Phillip Astley. On leaving the army, Astley married an expert horsewoman and with his own ability, plus a white charger given him by his general and with a horse that he bought, he set up business in an open field in London. The white charger, oy the way, named "Gibraltar", survived him, living to the old age of 42.

SHOPPING IS SUCH A PROBLEM!
CAN I AFFORD IT?

Excuse Us, Madam...

BUT IS THIS YOU?

No need to be panicky about it, when you're trying to make a few unstretchable dollars cover a multitude of purchases. There's always The Standard to help straighten things out.

Most Sikeston women do use The Standard ads as a guide to savings—not now and then, but every day. In fact, this shopping guide business is one of the newsiest jobs a newspaper has—for as we've said so often, "Not all the news is on the front page."

For instance: It's news when you read that you can get those broadcloth shirts for 89c instead of the $1.50 you thought you'd have to spend. The saving may mean porterhouse instead of round steak tonight. And, incidentally, a glance at the ads may tell you that porterhouse is a "special" at so-and-so's market today. That's news, too.

Most every little fact in a Standard ad must be worth-while news to you—or your merchant wouldn't be spending money to tell you about it. Make it a regular habit to read all the ads before you plan your shopping—you'll find that a lot of those unstretchable dollars are pretty elastic after all!

LEAKING ROOFS HOME OWNERS' CHIEF CONCERN

Leaky roofs are the chief concern of city home owners, while wells and other sources of water supply are the main worry of the farmers, according to an analysis of the requests for information being received by the Federal Housing Administration.

Painting comes next in both lists and frequently is coupled with roofs in the inquiries from city dwellers.

Home owners and farmers are by no means the only ones seeking modernization information from the FHA. Owners of apartment houses are deeply interested according to the mail analysis, as well as owners of small stores and shops. Some of the shop owners, however, can also be classed as home owners, as they own the building and live over the shop.

Texas Mills Active

Builders, lumber men and manufacturers of special building supplies also are keeping in close touch with the modernization program of the FHA. Most active of them all, apparently are the owners of small lumber mills in Texas. That state heads the list in volume of inquiries of all kinds, with a large proportion of all the Texas lumber mills represented.

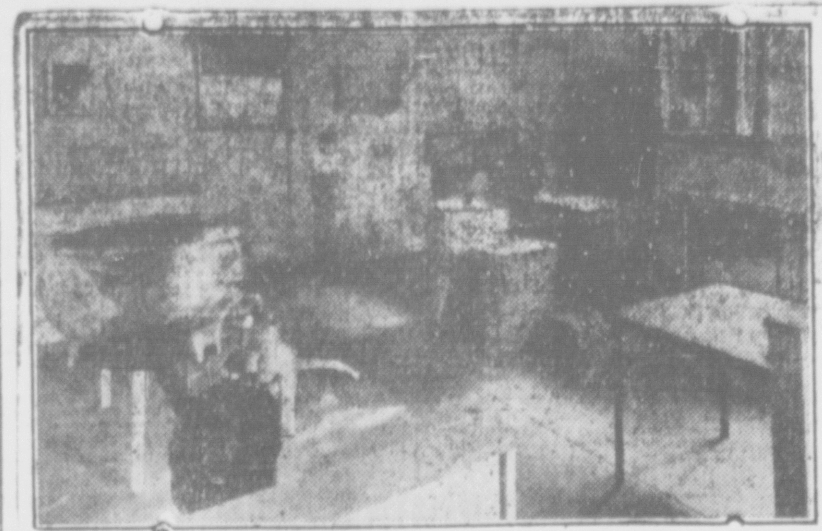

Pennsylvania comes second and New York third among the States. Nearly every phase of Modernization is mentioned in the flood of mail pouring in on the FHA. Even termites, or "white ants", figure in the inquiries since protection against this pest is a problem in some sections of the country.

Bath rooms, heating systems and plumbing generally are the subjects of some inquiries, while large numbers of home owners plan to build additional rooms to their houses to provide permanent quarters for those taken in during the "doubling up" process of recent years. "Father and Mother are living with us now", several writers state, "and we need an extra room for them".

Farmers' Interests Many

Farmers also are interested in many things in addition to wells. They inquire about the possibility of modernization loans for fences, gates, garages, poultry houses, smoke houses and similar small buildings. Lighting and fire protection, insulation, reconstruction

A New Room for County Farm Homes

The remodeling program sponsored by the Sikeston Better Housing Committee in co-operation with Successful Farming (published at Des Moines, Iowa) gives mother and the girls a convenient workshop of their own. The corner of a model workshop shown above provides: 1. A handy, compact laundry near the water supply; 2. A convenient place to hang the clothes, and for ironing; 3. A room for canning where everything is handy; 4. Conveniently placed cream separator near the sink where milk handling equipment is washed. Such a room is being planned by farm families over the midwest this year. Here is one place in the farm home where all major jobs of homemaking can be done with a minimum of effort.

CHANGES RECORDED IN STATE'S OFFICIAL FAMILY

A number of appointments, one promotion and several retirements were recorded recently in the "official family" at Jefferson City.

Jesse A. Mitchell, Republican, of Ava, was reappointed by Governor Park as a member of the State Tax Commission for a six year term expiring in 1941. The Tax Commission is now composed of Andy Wilcox, chairman, Andy Murphy and Mr. Mitchell. Wilcox and Murphy are Democrats.

Sergeant Eugene P. Clark of the State Highway Patrol is the new director of the State owned radio station, WOS, Clark, who was appointed to the Patrol from Union Star, Mo., succeeds Pemberton Gordon, of Kansas City, who resigned. It is a merited promotion for Clark.

Two new state liquor inspectors have also been appointed by E. J. Becker, state liquor control supervisor. They are Jule Eckel and A. J. McCullen, both of St. Louis. McCullen was formerly connected with the pure food and drug department while Eckels succeeds A. F. Quellmatz, Jr., who died recently.

Transfer of supervision of the 3.2 beer law from the pure food and drug department and a large reduction in the appropriation for the State Board of Health for the years 1935 and 1936, has led to the retirement of Dr. M. O. Raine of Downing, as pure food and drug supervisor. The post will be left vacant, according to health department officials. Lack of funds also resulted in the retirement of several other employees of the health bureau.

3,540 NEW CONVICTS AT PRISON IN 1933 AND 1934; AGES RANGED FROM 14 TO 83

A total of 3,540 individuals have been received at the Missouri State Prison during the last two years, 1933 and 1934, according to the biennial report of the State Department of Penal Institutions, which was recently made public.

The ages of the prisoners, the report shows, ranged from 14 to 83. Ten boys 16 years or younger, and fourteen men 70 years or older, entered the penitentiary gates during the period. The peak years were from 21 to 24. There were 203 who were 21, 209 who were 22, the same number who were 23, and 198 were 24.

Nearly 56 per cent of the new prisoners were native-born Missourians, 1971 of the 3540 admitted being in that class. Neighboring states furnished a large portion of the remainder. Only sixty were foreign-born.

Almost one-third of the persons entering during the two years were sentenced for burglary, 1000 having been sent to prison on that charge. Seven hundred and ninety-five were convicted of larceny, 628 of robbery, 261 of homicide, 242 of forgery, 95 of rape, 46 of fraud, 44 of sex offenses, 39 of stealing property, and 39 of traffic and motor law violations.

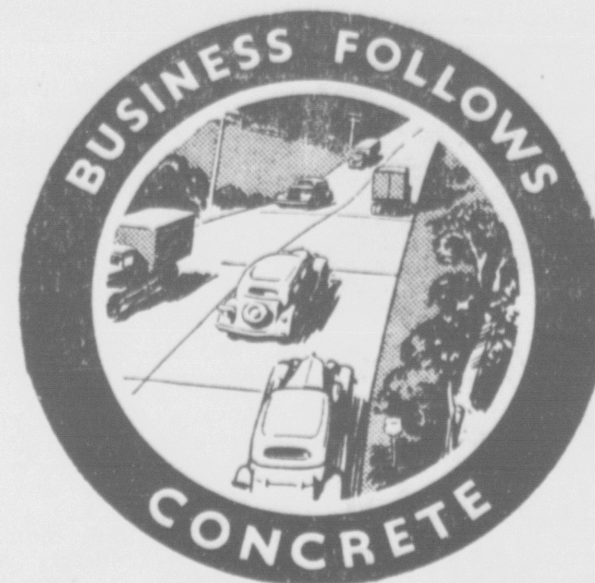

The report discloses that 68 of the new prisoners had received college educations. Nearly 80 per cent, however, had received only an eighth grade education or less. A total of 256 had never spent a day in school.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep—funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete our highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists up to 2 cents per mile less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, oil, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town on concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And in addition to these money-reasons concrete pavements give motorists relaxation... comfort... and SAFETY!

Good farm land and concrete roads have made Sikeston one of the best towns in the State. Concrete roads and streets will help any city.

Washington Comment

The Senate has passed the farm tenant bill, but there remains such details as consideration by the House, the President's O.K., and so on. Perhaps its most interesting provision is that tenants and others may borrow money for farm improvement and the purchase of homesteads. About a billion dollars will be made available. The sentiment against the bill finds its clearest expression in the statement that it is not well for the federal government to become a landlord.

and Ethiopia, the African nation hopes to band all Mohammedan peoples together against Moslem action, on the grounds that the Koran charges Moslems to help the Ethiopians in time of trouble. Unless Mohammedans stick closer to their bible than many Christians do to the precepts of their corresponding sacred volume, Ethiopia is likely to be left holding the sack, so far as aid from the quarter mentioned is concerned.

Col. Lindbergh has constructed a device for promoting the circulation of the blood. His invention will have to work pretty well to quicken our pulses to the rate that they reached when, in the late spring of 1927, we heard that the Lone Eagle had set his plane down safely in Paris after the memorable trans-Atlantic flight.

It is said that a "share the wealth" measure will pass Congress within five days. Assuming that it goes through and is put into operation, and that everyone gets his share, about five days will elapse after the sharing before another sharing will be in order.

In the trouble between Italy Washington differs from most cities of approximately the same size, in that in the capital everyone goes to work practically at the same hour and knocks off practically at the same hour, thereby producing a traffic congestion that is hard for the street cars and busses to handle. The District authorities wish that a subway were available. There are two things that never fail to attract attention. One is a falling tree, and the other is a large hole in the ground. It is to be suspected that Congress will look into the subway suggestion long and closely, before making the necessary appropriation. In the meantime, visitors to Washington and workers in that city had better plan to do their local traveling on the surface of the ground.

According to the Washington Treaty, a U-boat shall not sink an unresisting merchant vessel before removing human beings to safety, and England is planning a conference the object of which is to make the U-boat clause thoroughly effective. The submarine operations of the last war left a bad taste in the mouth of the Allies, and Germany was under deep damnation. Strange as it may seem, the Fatherland now promises to refrain from unrestricted sinking by U-boats, regardless of whether or not other powers act likewise; whereas Italy and France are thinking the matter over. The United States, Japan and England crave to be delivered, not from their aforesaid enemies, but from their friends.

Pugilistic history is rapidly in the making. A short time ago, Mr. Braddock patted Mr. Baer until those who had the decision at their command concluded that the title holder was outpointed. Now Louis has laid Carnera low, decisively it is true, but still thru a decision rather than by way of a genuine knockout. At present, the question as to who is the best man depends upon someone's say-so. Probably that is scientific, respectable and humane, yet there are those who recall with grim satisfaction the July day in 1889 when John L. Sullivan disposed of Jake Kilran only after a 75 round bout with bare knuckles. Spectacles of that sort were not pleasing from anaesthetic standpoint, but when they were done, nothing was left to opinion and even those who have no technical interest in prize fighting are inclined to think "there were giants in those days."

COUNTY FARM INMATES ELIGIBLE FOR PENSIONS

Inmates of county poor farms, or infirmaries, have the right to make application for and to receive old age assistance under the new state old age pension law. An opinion to this effect was written recently by Oliver W. Nolen, assistant attorney general of Missouri, in answer to a query by W. Ed Jameson, chairman of the state eleemosynary board, which will supervise the old age pension law administration. The opinion holds that county farm inmates are entitled to the same consideration as any other person possessing the necessary qualifications for a pension.

MOVIE TO BE SHOWN AT LOCAL HOME SERVICE FEATURE

Final arrangements for an unusual and interesting Home Service School have been made by Lee O'Reilly, Norge dealer here, and a large attendance is expected, according to Mrs. O'Reilly.

"We are conducting a combined cooking and homemaking school at The Rex Theatre on Tuesday, July 9th at 2 p. m.," continued Mrs. O'Reilly. "A new feature of this afternoon session will be the showing of the movie, 'Norging Ahead Together', a clever entertaining sound film built around the theme of use savings and value of modern home conveniences. This film marks the return to the screen of Beverly Bayne, famous star of silent days who is lovelier than ever and will have no difficulty in re-establishing herself on the modern screen."

"Elsa Bradley, noted home economist, will conduct the sessions and demonstrate the uses and savings of home conveniences, with particular emphasis on Rollator-Refrigeration and the new Norge kitchen range. New and intriguing recipes will be prepared and demonstrated at each session and housewives will be given an opportunity to exchange ideas and learn new methods in modern home-making."

"Popularity of cooking schools rivals that of bridge parties among modern housewives, and we are happy to be able to take advantage of this, as it gives us an opportunity to express our appreciation for the interest they have shown in our products, by arranging this educational and entertaining program. We hope all home-makers will take advantage of this invitation. In addition, we have arranged for delightful surprises that will be interesting and valuable to all who attend," concluded Mrs. O'Reilly.

FINDS OLD SILVER COIN WHILE CHOPPING COTTON

While he was chopping cotton in a field by the old cemetery north of town near the Grover Baker home, Jesse Dockins unearthed a rare, worn, silver coin. It is 148 years old.

Although impressions on it are faded, persons inspecting it may note the date of its mintage, 1787, and the name Carolus III on one side and a crest or coat-of-arms on the other. The coin has a neat hole punched near the edge, indicating that it had been worn as an ornament or "lucky piece." Mr. Dockins intends to keep the coin as a souvenir.

FULL INFORMATION ABOUT OLD AGE PENSIONS TO BE PUBLISHED SEPTEMBER 1

Members of the Scott county court have learned from state eleemosynary board that county old age pension committees can take no official action until the date the pension law becomes effective August 27, H. C. Watkins, Jr., clerk of the county court, announced Wednesday.

For that reason the court did not appoint a committee for Scott county at its meeting this week. Numerous inquiries have been received by the court and by attorneys from residents who consider themselves eligible for pensions.

On about September 1, Mr. Watkins said, information regarding procedure to follow in applying for pensions will be published in all Scott county newspapers.

PAGING POTATO SALAD

It's time to turn to the page "potato salad" in cook-books, for this piquant, refreshing dish is typical of summer, and there are few dishes so useful after June has turned the corner. We naturally associate potato salad with picnics and cruises on the water during warm weather months, but it also has a great affinity for cold, paper-tin slices of meats and tinkling iced drinks in the menus we serve at home.

Every one has his own distinct ideas of what potato salad should be. Personally we think any salad is a disappointment that doesn't contain sections of crisp, fresh cucumbers and hard-cooked eggs. One famous chef relies upon potatoes, onions, blanched almonds and finely chopped parsley to uphold his reputation in a potato salad. He uses two kinds of dressings, of course, first a French dressing, which is poured over coarsely mashed potatoes while they are still warm; then a special boiled dressing which is thoroughly mixed in with the other ingredients. Of course the salad is chilled thoroughly before serving.

There's nothing in substantial, main-dish salads so fresh and satisfying at this time of year than a mixed potato salad using potato, a cucumber, a bunch of scallions, stuffed olives, fresh radishes, sweet gherkin pickles, cold, cooked beets, and hard-boiled eggs. This salad should be seasoned well with salt, pepper and celery salt and mixed generously with mayonnaise. But if we didn't have fresh cucumbers, we would certainly use small cucumber pickles, as is done in a recipe we know which calls simply for cold boiled potatoes, diced celery, fresh peas, minced olives and the pickles.

The dressing we use for potato salad is the final arbiter of its flavor. If you do not have some favorite boiled dressing recipe which seems to carry your potato salad far out of the ordinary, use either French dressing or mayonnaise. A little tarragon vinegar and onion juice added will "step up" their flavor.

Almost any kind of salad with a foundation of boiled potatoes seems to rate the name of potato salad. It is made with herring sardines, chopped bologna and other sausage, and with finely cut ham, and this kind of salad with a vegetable and dessert makes a satisfying supper on a very hot evening.

Potato salads with a variety of crisp, fresh ingredients should be tossed together lightly so that all ingredients are thoroughly marinated in the dressing. A wooden fork or spoon should be used to avoid crushing the cubed vegetables. Have you seen the smart new wooden bowls made with tight-fitting covers and handles. A salad can be shaken in one of them as merrily as a cocktail.

POTATO SALAD

- 3 cups potatoes
- 3 tablespoons minced onion.
- 1tbsp green pepper (chopped)
- 3-4 cup cucumbers (diced)
- 2 hard boiled eggs, salad dressing, seasoning.
- Dice boiled potatoes fine. Add minced onion, finely chopped green pepper, cucumber and egg, saving one-half egg for garnishing to cooled potatoes. Add seasonings of salt, pepper, paprika, and celery seed. Add salad dressing and serve in a large nest of lettuce leaves. Garnish with one-half hard boiled egg and dressing.

SALAD DRESSING

- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 1 teaspoon mustard (dry)
- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 3 tablespoons sugar.
- 1-4 teaspoon paprika.
- 2 eggs
- 3-4 cups milk or water
- 1-4 cup mild vinegar.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- Combine salt, mustard, flour, sugar and paprika. Add slightly beaten eggs, water or milk, vinegar and butter. Cook over low heat stirring frequently until thickened. Store in refrigerator in sealed jar until desired for use.

COMBINATION SALAD

- 1 cup peas
- 1 cup shredded raw carrots
- 1 cup celery (cut in slivers)
- 1 cup cucumbers (sliced thin)
- 3-4 cup mayonnaise
- 2 cups of cold boiled ham (cut fine).
- 1-2 cup radishes (sliced fine).
- Salt and pepper.
- Make up as individual salads on lettuce nest. Do not combine ingredients other than placing a layer of cucumbers then carrots, ham, celery etc. Serve mayonnaise to one side. This makes a delicious luncheon dish when served with toasted English muffins. Make sure that vegetables are crisp and thoroughly chilled before making salad.

In a horse race at Brookline, Mass., Hurray Harry won the race and also took down place and show money, because he was the only horse to finish. Four other entries got in a tangle and fell.
